VICTORY OF HONEST CITIZENSHIP OVER THE FORCES OF GRAFT---MORAN

It is a victory of honest citizenship over the forces of graft. With every newspaper in Boston, except the BOSTON AMERICAN, unfairly and unjustly attacking my administration, printing all slanders against me and refusing to print my statements in full, the public and I owe to the BOSTON AMERICAN, which told the naked truth, a debt of gratitude so great that it is impossible to fully express it.

Justice, stern and true, met and crushed arrogant incompetency and eloquent mendacity.

Justice, merciful and tender, now sings no songs of joy, but drops a tear upon the political bier of the dead.

To put them to death was necessary brutality. To consign them to oblivion is kindly charity.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE SECOND PARTY IN STATE ON PRESENT RETURNS

Whitney Vote as Regular Democratic Condidate Behind That of Hisgen, One Sixtn of the Ballots Cast for Him Being Under Independent Designation—Draper Runs Behind Guild.

The first tabulation of the vote for Henry M. Whitney and Thomas L. Hisgen in the gubernatorial fight in this state to-day indicates that the Independence League is the second political party in the State.

Returns already made show that practically one-sixth of Whitney's vote was under other designations than that of the Democratic party. Whitney's total vote was about 84,000, and deducting the one-sixth of this leaves 70,000 votes that are to be credited to the Democratic party in the State.

Thomas L. Hisgen received 75,000 votes, thus beating Whitney running as a Democrat, if the proportion holds good throughout the State, by several thousand votes. Here are some of the figures upon which this estimate is based:

One-Sixth of Vote Independent.

In Cambridge Whitney received a total of 3,117 votes, 509 of which were under independent designations, about one-sixth of the entire vote in that city. In Waltham Whitney's total vote was 581, 90 votes being under independent designations.

In Revere the vote of Whitney was 264, 40 votes being under independent designations, more than one-sixth of the total. In North Adams, where Whitney made a strong run, his total vote was 726, with 109 votes under the independent designations, about one-seventh of the total vote.

If Whitney's independent vote is decreased to one-eighth of his total vote, seven, it would still give Hisgen a strong lead as the head of the second party of the State.

IMPORTANCE OF SECOND PLACE.

The Independence League as the second party in the State would under the law be given the right to participate in canvass and elections, the offices being divided between it and the Republican party. As the second party the Governor would take it into consideration in certain appointments under the law.

Returns from the thirty-two cities outside of Boston show that Draper has 78,606 votes, Brown, 57,042 votes, and Schofield 35,597. Draper's plurality over Brown being 41,356.

These same cities yesterday gave Guild 117,345 votes; Whitney, 61,654 votes; Hisgen, 54,195, and Bartlett, 8,949. Last year in these cities Guild got 107,441 and Moran 129,016. Last year Draper's plurality in these cities was 2,984, his total vote being 91,575 and Brown's 88,894.

MORAN'S VICTORY GROWS.

John B. Moran's victory is even greater to-day than was indicated last night by early returns.

Moran carried every ward in the city, except Ward 11, the Back Bay. He carried Chelsea and Revere, being tipped 116 votes in Republican Winthrop by Walter A. Webster, Dennison, Moran's former assistant, carried nothing.

Moran's total vote is 50,343. Webster got 37,671, and Donahoe, the Democrat, 17,922. In 1905 Mr. Moran was elected District Attorney by 42,238 votes, to 30,108 for Michael Sughrue.

Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence League candidate for Governor, amazed politicians by polling 75,026 votes.

It was a great day for the Independent voter and the Independence League. While the League candidate for District Attorney was sweeping everything before him in Suffolk, the League candidate for Governor, Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield, was rolling up a vote over the length and breadth of the State that simply amazed the practical politicians. Hisgen's 19,164 votes in Boston was counted a surprise.

McETTRICK VICTORIOUS.

The Independence League elected one Senator. Michael J. McEttrick won over

MAYOR'S NAMESAKE TO OPPOSE FITZGERALD

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, UNION LABOR MAN, WILL RUN FOR MAYOR.

John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor of Boston and resident of Dorchester, is to be opposed in his candidacy to succeed himself for mayor by John F. Fitzgerald of Ward 14, South Boston. The South Boston Fitzgerald is a member of the Boston Protective Roofers' Union, No. 11, a delegate to Boston Building Trades Council, and he presents himself for the votes of the people of Boston as a candidate of organized labor for mayor.

"I shall be a candidate for Mayor of Boston," said Mr. Fitzgerald to-day, "as the workingmen's candidate. The defeat of the John F. Fitzgerald political machine yesterday all along the line shows conclusively that my honored namesake has lost his grip on the situation.

"The people want a change. That desire for a change in present conditions is clearly shown in the comparatively small vote for Whitney and the comparatively large vote for Hisgen.

"These votes indicate indisputably that the working man has decided to act for himself and for his own betterment through City as well as State legislation. I shall oppose Mayor Fitzgerald as a candidate for the mayoralty in the city election next month."

Suffolk County Swept by Independence League Candidate for District Attorney and Anti-Fitzgerald Nominee for Sheriff

The Fitzgerald machine didn't go to bed last night. It was too frightened. It got daylight it was still sitting at the fireplace with the fire out.

The triumph of District Attorney Moran, nominated by the Independence League, supported since by the BOSTON AMERICAN, among the newspapers, together with a plurality in the city for the Republican Governor, and the Hisgen vote in Boston of 19,164, gave the Democratic organization a serious shock.

"The verdict of the people is certainly a surprise," said the Mayor. "The results in the State and the surprising vote case for Mr. Hisgen show that, in the opinion of the people, Mr. Whitney's candidacy was fatally handicapped by the fact that he has been connected with great corporations and had been, until recently, a director of the Boston & Maine railroad. The re-election of Mr. Moran by such an overwhelming vote is such a conspicuous triumph that even those who strongly opposed his candidacy and favored that of Mr. Dennison, the regular Democratic candidate, can hardly withhold their congratulations.

"Fitzgerald, it was recalled, had promised Boston to Henry M. Whitney by 25,000. Donovan and Dennison are said to have had the same promise.

Mr. Whitney, who is nearing his seventieth birthday, has expressed his "surprise," too. General Bartlett, who got 11,170 votes in the State at large, made no statement. Thomas L. Hisgen modestly pays tribute to the "honest, unpurchasable men of Massachusetts." Mr. Hisgen, believes, he says, that Guild's successor on Beacon Hill will be an Independence Leaguer.

The League vote in the State is the great surprise of the election. Hisgen and Whitney in many more towns than Whitney led Hisgen.

Other Candidates Win.

The League had endorsed Senator John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, re-elected over George W. Taylor of Lexington. It endorsed Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield again re-elected. It was back of Bartholomew J. Brickley in Ward 7, Boston. Brickley beat "Honest John" Quinn.

Senator Joseph Donovan of Lawrence, Republican, who led the Senate fight for the United Shoe Machinery Company last Winter, was beaten by Dennis E. Hailey, Democrat. In the nearby town of Andover 833 citizens voted "blank" for Representative. They had either to do that or vote for Speaker John N. Cole, the Shoe Machinery Trust printer.

Senator William J. Bullock was retired by the voters of New Bedford to make way for Nathaniel R. Soule. Bullock, a Republican, was one of the veterans of Beacon Hill. This was his fourth try for the Senate.

Senator Frederick J. MacLeod, Democrat, was turned down for re-election in Lynn bridge. His successor is Thorndike Spauld ing, a Republican. Senator John J. Mc Manmon of Lowell, Democrat, was also defeated. McManmon's place goes to Joseph Hibbard, Republican. In Holyoke, however, Daniel J. Mahoney, against whom a red-hot campaign was waged, was returned to the State Senate over M. H. Mosman. Senator Vahey won in the First Middlesex. In Brockton F. Gerry Brown, Independence League candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, led everybody on the ballot except Governor Guild.

The vote for Lieutenant-Governor has not been announced. In Boston the completion of the count for more than an hour not looked for until the middle of the forenoon. Official figures on Lieutenant-Governor in the State at large are not expected for a day or two.

Former Congressman John A. Sullivan, who stumped the State with and for Whitney, was one of the first to see the handwriting on the wall.

"If the Independence League pursues its purpose at the coming city election, as it did yesterday," said Sullivan, "the success of the League is not an impossibility.

"There is no reason why Courthrast should not receive the vote given to Hisgen in Boston yesterday, and Mayor Fitzgerald will be obliged to carry on a vigorous campaign to show greater strength than Whitney did yesterday."

In New Bedford, Hisgen topped Whitney 422 votes; in Lynn, the Independence Leaguer ran 800 votes ahead of the Democrat; Hisgen carried Melrose over Whitney by 187, Brockton by 871, Medford by 604 to 265. In Somerville the League led by 597.

In Everett, Hisgen got 900 votes, Whitney 276 and Bartlett 59. In Woburn, Hisgen was 165 ahead of Guild; 375, and so on, from the Cape to the Berkshires.

While Governor Guild's big lead of over 100,000 over his nearest competitor was greeted with joy at headquarters, Senator Lodge could not be drawn into a statement. A majority of the vote. Others of the leaders commented on the fact that the Guild vote was 4,000 less than John R. Moran's total vote for Governor last year. The Guild vote is a year stamped nearly 25,000.

WHAT THEY SAY TO-DAY.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

The re-election of Mr. Moran by such an overwhelming vote is such a conspicuous triumph that even those who strongly opposed his candidacy and favored that of Mr. Dennison, as the regular Democratic candidate, can hardly withhold their congratulations.

Joseph A. Dennison.

I fought a straight fight to the best of my ability, believing that a change in the district attorney's office would be for the benefit of the public. The voters have thought otherwise. I bow to the decision.

James Donovan.

The contest was worth the energy expended to learn what stanch friends I have in Suffolk county. I cannot hope to repay their extreme generosity and loyalty. I will be found from this out in my place in the ranks of the party, ready to add my mite toward achieving for it success in the future.

Walter A. Webster.

I put up the best possible fight, but the vote shows the people want John B. Moran for district attorney. No possible opponent could have defeated him. I bow to the will of the majority and thank all who supported me.

Daniel J. Kiley.

The result demonstrates that the people of Massachusetts believe in a radical and progressive Democracy. A corporation Democracy as personified by Mr. Whitney has received a humiliating rebuke, and a profitable lesson may be learned by those who think the Democratic party is a purchasable commodity.

Henry M. Whitney.

I am greatly surprised at the result of this election. I thought the people of Massachusetts were ready to declare themselves on the issues which I had discussed during the campaign. I thought that they approved of my platform on those issues. I am still convinced, in spite of the adverse vote, that the business men of the State are in favor of the issues I advanced.

Independence League Second Party in State--E. Gerry Brown

E. Gerry Brown, Independence League candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, says:

"The Independence League vote surprised quite a few, but I guess the citizens will now recognize it as the second party in the State, and the Independence League has only just begun to grow."

ICE CROP NOT USED.

BANGOR, Nov. 6.—Of all the 80,000 tons of ice harvested on the Penobscot River last Winter only about 7,000 tons, from the house of an independent concern, has been shipped. The American Ice Company, known as the trust, has not handled any of his houses. About 300,000 tons of fine ice remain in Maine houses, and there is little prospect that any harvest will be made this Winter.

HIGGINS WINS IN RHODE ISLAND; SISSON LOSES

REPUBLICANS CAPTURE REST OF THE STATE TICKET AND ASSEMBLY.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 6.—The latest returns from the State election show that James H. Higgins, Democrat, has been re-elected Governor by about 1,400 votes, defeating Frederick H. Jackson, Republican.

The feature of the contest is the probable election of Ralph C. Watrous, of Warwick, Republican, for Lieutenant-Governor. There is still one district to hear from.

The vote for Governor now stands: Higgins, Dem. 32,282; Jackson, Rep., 30,894. The incomplete returns for Lieutenant-Governor give Watrous 31,465, against 31,060 for Charles Sisson of Providence, Democrat.

The remainder of the Republican State ticket is successful. Secretary of State, Charles F. Bennett. General Treasurer Walter A. Reed and Attorney General William B. Greenough winning out by pluralities varying from 4,709 to 6,000.

The Republicans control the General Assembly, dashing the hopes of the Democrats, who expected a majority in the Assembly and to be thus able to choose a United States Senator to succeed Senator George P. Wetmore.

The House of Representatives is Republican, 44 to 28, and the Senate is Republican also, 28 to 10.

Patrick J. McCarthy is re-elected mayor of Providence. The vote is: McCarthy, Dem., 12,825; Huddy, Rep., 9,977; Prendiville, Pro., 266. Clarke, Rep., is elected city treasurer.

In Central Falls, Timothy J. Riley, the defeated Democratic candidate of last year, was elected mayor, but in Woonsocket the Democratic mayor for several years, Aldard Archambault, was defeated, the Republican meeting William H. Park by a small plurality. In Pawtucket, the Republican mayor, Robert A. Sayrun, was re-elected by a plurality of nearly 1,000. Pawtucket completely reversed its vote of last year on assemblymen, electing eight Republicans instead of eight Democrats.

NEW COLLIER MELROSE IS LAUNCHED

The steam collier Melrose, sister ship to the Malden and Everett, which were launched about a year ago, slid down the ways at the Fore River yard at 10:44 o'clock to-day.

The launch was a success and the new boat took to the water as gracefully as a duck and without incident.

She was christened by Mrs. Howard Everett Gurney, daughter of Mayor E. H. Moore of Melrose.

She is secretary to her father as Mayor and resides at No. 247 Porter street, that city. When Miss Irma A. Moore, she was one of the prettiest girls in Melrose, where her father is a very extensive real estate owner. Mrs. Gurney has two little sisters and Mayor Moore attended the launching.

The Melrose is a fine type of a modern coasting vessel and seaworthy and fast. She is owned by the New England Gas & Coke Company. The launching was private, but about 1,000 workmen saw the Melrose leave the ways.

SAYS SHE WAS HIT WITH BEAN BASKET

Mrs. Myra E. Stearns, who conducts a fashionable boarding house at No. 1 Arlington street, Back Bay, was discharged by Judge Parmenter in the Municipal Court to-day, after he had heard Miss Katherine Duffy's charge of assault against the other woman. Miss Duffy had been employed by Mrs. Stearns to do housework, and says that she had words with her mistress, and that Mrs. Stearns, who is an aged woman, hit her over the head with a basket of beans.

MORMONS SAIL ON THE CYMRIC

The White Star line steamship Cymric sailed for Liverpool to-day, carrying eighty-five first cabin passengers, 225 steerage passengers and in her hold a record-breaking cargo, including 31,437 barrels of apples.

Of the eighty-five first cabin passengers sixty-five were Mormon missionaries going abroad to propagate their religion.

MISS M'LAUGHLIN A BROOKLINE BRIDE

The culmination of a pretty romance beginning way back in childhood was celebrated to-day in the marriage of Mary E. McLaughlin, No. 112 Davis avenue, Brookline, and Mark J. Mackey of No. 179 Aspinwall avenue, in the same town. The bride's sister, Alice McLaughlin, attended as bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Sheehan in St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline.

PURCHASE STREET BLAZE.

Fire which broke out shortly before noon to-day at the Electrical Goods Manufacturing Company, No. 115 Purchase street, created a lot of excitement and caused a loss of $200. Just how the fire started is a mystery.

PHILADELPHIA SCIENTIST IS 'ALL THE CANDY'

The cheerful news comes, via Philadelphia, that candy is not a bad thing in the world for girls. The more they eat the more athletic they become.

Thomas Palladelphia K. credited with being behind the times, she has one scientist who is right up to date. He is the one who announces that sugar, and therefore candy, is a great bracer for the girls.

He declares that it is a scientific fact that the girl who eats half a pound of candy can walk farther and faster, play a better game of golf or tennis or Mary E. Mock the golf ball farther and generally do more than her sister who doesn't eat candy at all.

The Candy Regimen.

The candy program, patterned after the masculine one for athnianta, will go something like this:

8 a. m.—Chocolate drop eye-opener.
10 a. m.—Creamy lozenge.
12 noon—Caramel appetizer.
Dinner—Candied violets, dry; liquor of sugarine.
10 p. m.—Peppermint nightcap.

It has been definitely established that this scientist is not a paid employee of the Candy Trust, but is in the candy trade, so the girls may go ahead and eat all the candy their masculine friends will bring them.

Acts Like Cocktails.

This scientist goes far. He intimates that candy acts on the feminine system like cocktails on the male. After a pound of candy, he says, a healthy girl feels ripe for a bosting bout. If she eats two pounds you simply can't hold her, she feels so skittish.

It is expected that when these glad tidings are spread about Boston there will be marked increase in the consumption of sweets. The anemic schoolgirl will have a half-pound of chocolates every morning to see may store up energy enough to dig out her algebra lessons. The tired housewife, weary with a morning's work, will rush to the corner drug store, put down a dollar of candy, and then go back refreshed for the afternoon. If hubby finds his stockings not mended, all he has to do is to bring home a box of bon-bons. Then his wife will have a spasm of energy that will last a week.

BIG GUN PRACTICE TO BEGIN TOMORROW

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 6.—Big gun practice at Forts McKinley and Preble will begin to-morrow, that at Fort Williams and Levett some days later. A new departure this year will be the attendance upon the practice of two officers of the United States Navy, who will arrive here to-morrow night for the purpose of observing the work of the big fellows. The officers assigned to the duty are Lieutenant-Commander F. B. Upham and Lieutenant L. C. Palmer of the U. S. S. Vermont, both stationed at Boston.

GREAT HISGEN VOTE AMAZES POLITICANS IN TWO OLD PARTIES

WHITNEY IS BURIED IN MANY CITIES AND TOWNS BY INDEPE NDENCE LEAGUE.

Hisgen Thanks the Voters For Their Loyal Support

NATURALLY, I am pleased and gratified. I sincerely thank the honest men who voted for me. It is not a personal tribute to me, but it is a most emphatic protest of the people against the sale of one great party to the corporations and the continued manipulation of the other great party by the bosses who are friendly wit hthe trusts.

This vote for me is especially pleasing, because it is an honest expression of feeling, inasmuch as not one cent was spent to bring votes to the polls. It shows that the Independence League has come to stay. I believe I have received more votes than Mr. Whitney, and I am confident the full returns will prove it. It means that we shall keep up the fight with even more vigor and enter the next campaign with a firm determination to elect our State ticket. For some time I have felt that my vote would surprise the politicians because of the great interest and large attendance at our rallies.

It is all over now, and I do not want to criticise the newspapers, which either carefully ignored our fight or belittled it, but I must say that the result has been a hard blow at the prestige of some of them. The newspapers which have treated me fairly I heartily thank.

Because I have always made it a point to appreciate my friends I want to say that I feel under the deepest obligations to the BOSTON AMERICAN. The Independence League State and local committees and the men who spoke for me on the stump. My associates on the State ticket worked loyally and I cannot express how much I thank them.

I believe many workingmen and small store keepers supported me and believed in me. I know a great many women gave my acuse their staunch moral influence and I am deeply appreciative of that.

I am delighted over the re-election of John B. Moran. It is the just reward of a fearless, honest, able and humane prosecutor.

Thomas L. Hisgen.

How Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence League candidate for Governor, secured 125,000 votes, how he was only a few thousand votes behind Henry M. Whitney and how he beat Whitney in nineteen out of the thirty-two cities, are things which the leaders of the old parties are gloomily considering to-day.

To them it came with shock of amazement that he would come so near defeating Whitney for second place. Those politicians who followed the Independence League candidate closely and saw the numbers of people who came to hear him at his rallies, set Mr. Hisgen down for a good vote. Hisgen got the votes.

He came into Boston a supposedly Democratic stronghold and secured almost 30,000 votes, an unprecedented feat for the candidate of a new party.

Big Sweep in Everett.

He secured a vote in Everett so far in excess of that given Mr. Whitney that the Democratic party has lost its standing in that city, it, having failed to cast the necessary three per cent of the total vote. With the birth of the Independence League in Everett the requiem was sung for the old organization.

Hisgen's vote in Everett was 900, Whitney's was 247.

It was almost as bad in other places. In Lynn Hisgen led Whitney by 800. He was 400 votes ahead of the Democratic candidate in Quincy. That was another heartache that wasn't quite expected.

Somerville came to the support of the honest horse by the man who has fought the greatest trust in the world to a standstill and gave him the striking vote of 1,547. Whitney trailed along in third place with only 1,040 votes to his credit, Governor Guild having carried the city.

Marlboro by Four to One.

In Marlboro it was almost four to one in favor of Mr. Hisgen as against Whitney. Waltham gave Hisgen a vote that was more than twice the size of that given Mr. Whitney. In other cities the story was the same. Hisgen getting the vote, Whitney losing round.

It is interesting to note the figures from such places as Chelsea, Gloucester, Lawrence, Medford, Melrose, New Bedford, Newburyport, Wilburn and Salem, places where it was thought that Republicans had the votes all to themselves.

One thing was noticed and that was that wherever Thomas L. Hisgen was heard by the voters, wherever he had an opportunity to talk to them, explain the principles he stood for and why he was enlisted in it, he made votes.

"It was a disgraceful route," one newspaper puts it to-day, referring to the way in which the voters of Everett and Gloucester flocked to the standard of the Independence eLague and deserted the Democracy and its corporation candidate.

"I am greatly surprised at the result," Mr. Whitney said, when, after long computation, he was able to realize just what the figures meant to him.

He found out one thing it meant a little later, when Mayor Fitzgerald, who had disappointment all his own in the overwhelming victory of John B. Moran, Independence League candidate for District Attorney, said in a statement:

Mayor's Significant Statement.

"The result seemed to indicate that the Democratic party in the State must stand for more radical policies, that a man of Mr. Whitney's business affiliations can be expected to advocate if it is to be an effective opposition."

Even those who most strenuously opposed Mr. Hisgen were compelled to admit that the strength that he showed constituted a great triumph for the man and the principles he advocated.

There was great fear in the hearts of the Democratic leaders when the votes kept rolling up for Hisgen that his total vote in the State would be greater than Whitney's. So near did that come being so that the panic lasted until the early hours of the morning. It would have been the last straw for the Whitneyites.

At his home in West Springfield where they rolled up a big vote for him, Mr. Hisgen received the returns and expressed his gratification when he saw how he had been supported. Realizing that he had fought a good fight and that the results were as good as a victory he was content.

M'ETTRICK, OF LEAGUE, WINS OVER CURLEY

Senator-Elect from the Fourth District Shares Victory With the People.

The victory achieved by former Congressman Michael J. McEttrick, the Independence League candidate for the Senate in the Fourth Suffolk Senatorial District, Wards 9, 12 and 17, in winning out over Thomas F. Curley, the leader of the Democratic Club, was one of the surprises of yesterday's election.

"My victory," he said, "is a vindication of the principles for which I have fought all my life. The belief is not yet dead that the people's will is still the people's law.

"When the people can be made to recognize the fact that the government for more than a year has been largely controlled by the tyrannical system of machine bosses they can be depended on to take matters in their own hands.

"This victory is not my victory, but that of the people and if the same spirit that has been exhibited in this contest and others of the character is still exhibited life will assume an entirely different aspect both governmentally and socially, in Boston."

Second League Victory.

Another victory for the League was the election of Bartholomew A. Brickley of Ward 7 over John J. Quinn. Mr. Brickley was not the Democratic nomination, but stood pledged to the principles of the Independence League. He is a young attorney and has a bright future ahead of him.

In Maynard the Independence League was successful in electing its candidate for the House of Representatives, C. J. Lynch. He defeated Frull, the Republican nominee, by 125 votes.

Charles J. Kidney, the Independence League candidate for the House of Representatives in Ward 17, made a remarkable run, getting 1,118 votes. He was opposed by the Curley machine and at the polling place were hordes of city employes working teeth and nail against him. Mr. Kidney had no workers at the polls and did not spend any money in the fight.

"I am satisfied with the result," said Mr. Kidney to-day, "and will not ask for a recount. Neither will I take the case of Fred Sheets, my opponent, to the Supreme Court. If the people want an outlet to express them, I will not take any action to upset his election. I wish to thank my friends of the Independence League and the Democrats who gave me their support and the few Republicans who voted for me."

Thomas F. Coogan, Representative-elect in Ward 14, was endorsed by the Independence League, being nominated in the primaries. He was also supported by the Democratic organization.

McEttrick and Curley.

Michael J. McEttrick has a remarkable career in the field of politics. He has always been fortunate in winning out as an Independent. In the contest for a seat in Congress some few years ago he successfully defeated the Hon. William S. McNary, who was the regular nominee of the Democratic party.

Previous to that he won out as an independent candidate for the Senate, defeating the regular Democratic candidate.

For a number of years Mr. McEttrick was out of politics, but was induced to enter the field again by Thomas F. Curley, and was for the House of Representatives in 1905. Curley was his running mate on the ticket.

Theodore A. Glynn was the candidate of the opposition. That campaign is well known to the people of Boston. Glynn won out and Curley and McEttrick were tied for second place.

Curley Named Himself.

That year Thomas F. Curley was chairman of the Ward Committee and was in a position to dictate who the second candidate should be, the ward organization being empowered to fill any vacancy which might exist, there being no choice in the primaries, Curley decided in favor of himself.

Previous to that he had proclaimed from the public platform that if one vote was necessary to elect McEttrick and the voter was to decide as to whom it should be cast it should be given to McEttrick "because he was a political saint."

Contrary to his platform utterances Curley had himself nominated by his own committee as the candidate of the Democratic party and McEttrick ran on nomination papers and won out, defeating Curley by a large majority.

DEMANDS $100; HALTS BRIDAL

WARE, Nov. 6. The demand of Annie Kowal for $100 nearly broke up the wedding of Miss Mary Geylos and John Wasnyuck, which was taking place in St. Mary's Polish Church yesterday, and it was with difficulty that she could finally be quieted by the payment of $75 sufficiently to allow the ceremony to proceed.

Everything was in readiness for the marriage, the couple had gathered at the altar and the clergyman was about to begin the solemn ritual when the unbidden woman, carrying an 18 months-old baby in her arms rushed in and, running down the aisle of the church, grabbed the groom by the arm and demanded the payment under threat of breaking up the wedding. She was finally quieted and the wedding proceeded.

HUNT SEASON SLOW IN MAINE

BANGOR, Nov. 6.—Money panics, political campaigns and other things seem to be keeping the sportsmen out of Maine this season, for the visitors are not nearly so numerous as formerly, the decrease in their numbers being about one-third. Game receipts at Bangor in the month of October were 677 deer, 58 moose and 17 bears, compared with 1,080 deer, 77 moose and 11 bears in October last year.

WEALTHY GIRL WALDORF GUEST LOSES JEWELS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Diamonds and other jewelry, valued at $12,000, were lost by, or stolen from, Miss L. C. Chalfant of Allegheny, Pa., in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, or vicinity. Miss Chalfant, who is a member of the family owning the Spang-Chalfant steel mills in Pittsburg, and who is wealthy in her own right, has offered a reward of $2,000 for the jewels, which she prizes far above the intrinsic value. She was at the hotel last week with her mother. The women left the hotel Friday afternoon, saying that they were going home. About 4 o'clock that night the management of the hotel was informed by long distance telephone of the loss of the jewels.

Miss Chalfant said that she had missed the chamois bag in which she kept the gems when she prepared to retire early in the morning.

A thorough search of the rooms and questioning of employes by the detectives and managers brought no results.

HITCHCOCK IS IN BROOKLINE, SAYS REPORT

New Clue to the Missing Actor Leads to Massachusetts Town.

POLICE TO GO ON TRAIL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The police are informed that Raymond Hitchcock, the missing comedian, has been seen at an estate in Brookline. Those known as the Cooley Farm, where he is supposed to be visiting his sister. The Boston police are to be put on his trail in hope of locating Hitchcock.

Chief Watts of the Boston detective force said to-day that he has received no word yet from the New York authorities about Raymond Hitchcock being in Boston or Brookline. The Brookline police officials have received no communication either. There is no place in Brookline known as the "Cooley Farm." It is thought that the New York police may mean the Coolidge Farm, as a large estate here was formerly known under that title. The estate has since been divided into house lots.

London cablegrams say Hitchcock was not on board the liner Adriatic, which arrived here to-day. Scotland Yard detectives met the liner at the dock and made a thorough search for the New York comedian.

MONEY KINGS AVERT GOTHAM BANK CRASHES

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wall street sighed with relief when it read the financial kings' announcement early to-day that money will be supplied "up to the limit" to support the Lincoln Trust and Trust Company of America, upon which there have been runs of varying volumes ever since the Knickerbocker suspended.

The two companies' affairs were generally understood to be under consideration when about forty financiers of the metropolis assembled at J. P. Morgan's home Sunday afternoon. The continuation of the conference all Sunday afternoon and night and its resumption again last night made bankers and market operators nervous. There was a welcome relaxation in the strain when this statement was finally issued from the Morgan mansion at 3 a. m. to-day:

"A committee of the trust companies of New York city has had the accounts of the Trust Company of America, and Lincoln Trust Company examined by experts, who report that in their judgement and on the present basis of valuation the assets are sufficient to pay depositors in full. The necessary arrangements have been made to enable both companies to proceed with the business."

Stocks Show Gains.

The New York stock market opened irregular, with more advances than declines. Great Northern preferred advanced 3 and Northern Pacific 1¾ higher. Union Pacific, Sugar and B. R. T. opened ¼ higher. St. Paul, Reading and Smelting ⅝ higher. Anaconda and Canadian Pacific were unchanged. Steel opened ⅛ lower, Great Northern Ore ⅜, Erie ¼ and Copper ½ lower.

At the end of ten minutes' trading the market was irregular, with indications of support in some leading issues.

$7,100,000 Arrives.

The big steamer pier of the North German Lloyd line at Hoboken was to-day overflowed with policemen in uniform, city detectives, Pinkerton men, secret service men and the armed guards of the big New York banks, all engaged in effecting the safe delivery of $7,100,000 from the vaults of the steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie to trucks which were to carry it to the relief of the banks of Wall street.

The gold, which was in bars of various sizes was contained in 435 iron-bound boxes.

MYSTERY IN 3 BURGLARIES INVESTIGATED

The Jamaica Plain police are to-day investigating three mysterious breaks which occurred during the night, none of which involves looking up the identity of a man found unconscious in Willard T. Whittemore's grain and flour store, in the Stony brook district.

When George H. Smith of No. 3388 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, stable man for Whittemore, opened the stable as usual to-day he found unconscious on the floor a man who later gave his name as Louise C. Maun of No. 208 Chestnut street, Jamaica Plain.

The man was on the floor under an open window, with a bad cut on his head. The position in which he was found and the cut on his head were results such as might have occurred to a person trying to climb in the window, losing his balance and falling head first to the floor. There were marks on the front door of the stable as though some one had tried to break in that way.

The man was taken to the City Hospital, where he will be detained, pending investigation.

While the police were looking into this matter word was received at the station here from the Centre street section. George P. Trott reported that some one entered his grocery at No. 757 Centre street, opened the safe and took $20 in cash. The police succeed to know the combination of the safe, as the door was opened without signs of trouble.

The John Creamery at No. 666 Centre street was entered through a rear window, but so far as known now nothing was stolen.

MALONEY GIRL'S SECRET HUSBAND CALLS ON HER

BROKER OSBORNE RETURNS FROM PHILADELPHIA, AFTER CONFERENCE WITH FAMILY.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Arthur Herbert Osborne, for two years the secret husband of Helen Maloney, returned to-day to his apartments in the Beresford, No. 1 West Eighty-first street, after a visit to the bride who eloped with "Sammy" Clarkson to England, at the home of her multi-millionaire father in Philadelphia.

The return of the prodigal daughter is shielded from publicity. In Philadelphia Mr. Maloney would not confirm it, although his brother was seen to take a heavily veiled young woman into the house. This is believed by many to be the same "Miss Osborne" who arrived in New York yesterday on the Kron Prinzessin Cecelle.

Osborne is Cheerful.

When Mr. Osborne, who has been in communication with Lawyer Fanning for Mr. Maloney since the elopement of his secret bride more than a month ago, returned to New York to-day, he was in a very pleasant frame of mind, but declined to enter into details.

"Matters are working out satisfactorily," he said, "and soon everything will be all right. I have been cautioned to say nothing at this time, but later on I will make a statement which will clear the asperity, and then I trust the public will cease to take such an absorbing interest in our affairs, but at this time I can say nothing."

When Mr. Osborne was taken into the councils of the Maloney family and his marriage to Miss Maloney recognized by Lawyer Fanning, he was cautioned to give no statement to the newspapers and not discuss the case with anyone until everything had been satisfactorily arranged and he had been given the proper permission.

Called to Family Conference.

Mr. Osborne, who is a very rich young broker and a graduate of Princeton, told a few of his friends yesterday, just before he started for Philadelphia, that his young wife had returned to this country, that she was at her father's home in Philadelphia, and that he had been called to that city to take part in a family conference.

Andrew Maloney, uncle of the girl, has given out in the past several statements which have been at variance with the facts as they later developed. He now denies that the Maloney family has recognized the marriage of Osborne and Miss Maloney, while Lawyer Fanning, the representative of Martin Maloney in New York, gave an authoritative statement three weeks ago, while Lawyer Fanning, the representative of Martin Maloney in New York, gave an authoritative statement three weeks ago, that the secret marriage at Mamaroneck two years ago had been formally recognized by the father and mother of the eloping heiress.

PRISON GARB AIDS POLICE IN CAPTURE,

SPRINGVALE, Nov. 6.—Two men in prison garb who claimed in court that they escaped from a Massachusetts hospital while serving a prison sentence, but later admitted to Jailer Rankin at the county jail that they escaped yesterday from Stratford's state prison, where they had been sentenced from Rochester, N. H., to six months for uncertain, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Beal early the following morning. The men said they arrived in town on a freight train and gave their names as Allen and Rankin.

Jailer Rankin recognized the prison suits as those worn at Stratford's prison. The men gave their names at the jail as Michael O'Connors and George Allen.

LOSING SKILLED WORKERS.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Nov. 6.—The establishment of a new cotton mill at Three Rivers, Que., is likely to prove a serious handicap to the mill industries of this city, as a large number of French-speaking loom fixers and weavers have applied for positions in the new Canadian enterprise.

BEGIN PROBE OF WORCESTER PROBATE OFFICE

WORCESTER, Nov. 6.—Examiners from the office of the Comptroller of County Accounts at the State House, Boston, are investigating the books of County Treasurer George S. Taft has caused the investigation as a result of stories told by former clerks in the office. It is charged that Register Harlow has been in the habit of appropriating fees for the jury roll and then paying the clerks himself a percentage for doing the roll. The affairs of the Probate office have been under secret investigation, it is said, since last July. The examiners are here at the request of the Worcester County commissioners.

SLIGHT LEAD FOR DEMOCRAT IN NEW JERSEY

Fort Running Close to Katzenbach, and Republicans Do Not Give Up.

JOHNSON IN CLEVELAND

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—So close is the vote in New Jersey that the result will be in doubt until the figures are carefully totalled to-day. Both parties claim victory by a small margin.

The estimated plurality for Katzenbach, Democratic candidate for Governor, in Hudson county is 10,000, and if this is approximately correct he is elected over Fort, Republican. Leading independent newspapers in the State generally concede that the Democrats have won by a small plurality.

The Democrats' claims include, besides Hudson County by 10,000, Hunterdon by 1,000, Essex by 2,000 and Warren, Middlesex, Monmouth and Somerset by 1,000 each. Mark F. Fagan, candidate for a fourth term as mayor of Jersey City and widely known as a reformer in city politics, authorized a statement by H. Otto Wittpen, Democrat, the plurality being estimated at 10,000.

Fagan's friends attribute the change, which represents the largest plurality ever given a municipality candidate in Jersey City, to the recent question, the increase in taxes and public disapproval of a fourth term.

The assembly will be Democratic, 32 to 28, but the Senate remains Republican.

Some of the mayors elected are: John H. Gill, Republican, Trenton; Andrew F. McBride, Democrat, Paterson; T. Frank Appleby, Republican, Ashbury Park; Charles J. Ellis, Republican, Camden; George H. Stell, Democrat, Hoboken; Harvey L. Johnson, Republican, Princeton.

Tom Johnson Re-elected.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 6.—Tom. L. Johnson has been re-elected Mayor for a fourth time over Congressman Theodore E. Burton, whom President Roosevelt injected into local politics, by 9,313.

Johnson made his fight on the three cent street car fare proposition while Burton insisted that the charge should not be less than seven tickets for twenty-five cents. The result was in great doubt until a late hour, both sides claiming victory until Burton issued his statement admitting his defeat.

Open-Town Mayor Again.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 6.—Brand Whitlock, the novelist-mayor has been re-elected. He favored a wide open town, while R. A. Hartley, the Republican candidate, was pledged to the closing of the Sunday saloons and the gambling houses.

Returns are as independent and the fact that he has triumphed over Hartley by Benjamin is regarded as a Democratic candidate attest his popularity.

Cincinnati Goes Republican.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—By a decisive vote the people of the city of Cincinnati decided to-day to return to Republican rule. The returns show that Colonel Leopold Markbreit, the Republican candidate for Governor, has received 45,000 of the votes cast. The total vote will approximate 90,000.

Markbreit's majority over all will be about 5,000. The election was the result of charges by George B. Cox in the control of affairs of the Republican party in this city.

C. O. P. Ticket in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—Incomplete returns show that there has been a reaction bordering on a landslide in Kentucky and that Augustus E. Willson, for Governor, and the entire Republican ticket has been elected. The Republicans have made gains in the Legislature race and there is danger now that the Democratic assembly will be so close as to give Governor Beckham serious trouble in being elected United States Senator.

Anti-Mormon Party Wins.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 6.—The American or anti-mormon party won an overwhelming victory at the polls in this city to-day, electing John S. Brassford as mayor.

The result is regarded as a repudiation of United States Senator Reed Smoot, the fight over whose seat in the Senate on the ground that he was a polygamist attracted national attention.

Sheatz's Plurality 175,000.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 6.—John O. Sheatz, Democrat, was elected State Treasurer over John G. Harmon, Democrat, yesterday, in a landslide giving Sheatz a plurality of 175,000 by Philadelphia's proposed city loan of $10,000,000 received a majority of 42,000.

Democrats Sweep Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 6.—There was no interest in the election in this State, E. F. Noel, Democratic candidate for Governor, the only Democratic State ticket being elected by the smallest vote polled in years, having no opposition, as the Socialists failed to get their names on the official ballot. The Legislature is entirely Democratic. It will elect John Sharp Williams to succeed United States Senator Money, whose term expires in 1911, there being no regular session of the assembly prior to that time.

STRICKEN IN SUBWAY.

Taken suddenly ill in the Scollay square station of the subway yesterday, Andrew M. Nelson of No. 528 Columbus avenue, was removed to the Relief Station.

SCHLEY IN MISSOURI.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 6.—Rear Admiral W. S. Schley arrived here to-day to attend a three-days' reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons.

AMERICAN IS FIRST TO GIVE VOTE RESULTS

Thousands Watch Bulletins and Snap Up Extras with Returns.

Thousands of people watched the election returns bulletined by stereopticon on the BOSTON AMERICAN in Summer street last night.

Moving pictures from time to time lightened the heavier business of the evening and gave the great crowds something to laugh at as well as to cheer.

The bulletin service kept the big crowds posted as to the results, for every scrap of information was given to the anxious and enthusiastic watchers in the street as soon as received by the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Jeer Mayor's Picture.

Pictures of Thomas L. Hisgen, E. Gerry Brown and John B. Moran were cheered to the echo by the crowds. As showing the trend of public feeling, when a picture of Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was flashed on the canvas, groans, jeers, hisses and laughter swelled up from the throng.

There was no disorder from start to finish. The crowd was a good natured one and the different bulletins, especially those showing the crushing defeat administered to the Fitzgerald machine were cheered to the echo, while hoarse greeted the bulletins showing the wonderful victory of John B. Moran, the Independence League candidate for District Attorney.

The splendid run made by Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence League candidate for Governor, enthused the crowd, while the bulletins which showed the popularity of E. Gerry Brown, the League's candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, were received with enthusiasm.

Extra Bulletin Results.

As soon as the returns began to come to the BOSTON AMERICAN from all over the State special extras were printed. They were snapped up by the crowds in Summer Boston eagerly.

Extra after extra was issued until a late hour, and as fast as the papers were offered for sale on the streets they were snapped up by the people and eagerly read and then taken home.

As usual the extras issued by the BOSTON AMERICAN contained the latest and most complete returns. In each extra bulletins received just a few minutes previous to the hour of going to press were printed, and the city hundreds of thousands of people who stayed on the streets and came out of the theatres were made aware of the exact situation.

NEW LINEN PLANT.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Nov. 6.What is said to be the first plant in the country to make linen from stretch American yarn will begin operations in this town early in March, according to the announcement of the Board of Trade, which has secured the Unford Linen Company to establish here.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE VOTE BIG IN NEW YORK

REMARKABLE SHOWING IN CONTEST DESPITE USE OF TAMMANY MONEY.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In the victory of the Democratic ticket in yesterday's election the figures completed to-day show that the Independence League polled more than 80,000 votes in the city of New York.

This result was the more remarkable because of the use of an enormous sum of money by Tammany Hall and because it was what was termed an "off year election."

Last year, when the Democratic party was in alliance with the Independence League, the total vote in Manhattan and the Bronx was 178,135. This year the Democratic vote in Manhattan and the Bronx was 141,000.

Whitman for judge of the court of Special Sessions led the Fusion ticket with more than 123,000 votes while Maximilian F. Ihmsen the Fusion nominee forsheriff, was a close second on the ticket with 120,671 votes to Foley's 145,388.

The Tammany ticket in New York county was elected by one of the smallest pluralities in years.

The returns to-day, with several districts missing give Foley a plurality, approximately, over Ihmsen, of 24,717.

Gerard defeated Bruce, Fusion candidate for the Supreme Court, by 25,000.

The two Barrett's were elected judges of the Court of Appeals over Lyon and McDonough, Independence League candidates.

McCarren was defeated in Brooklyn, the entire Republican ticket with the exception of district attorney and possibly surrogate winning out.

League Men Win Out.

McCarren's judiciary ticket has been defeated, and the Republicans lose five members of the Board of Aldermen, because of their refusal to fuse with the Independence League.

Here, again, the strength of the Independence League was indicated. In practically every case where there was fusion on Aldermanic candidates, the Independence League carried the nominees to victory.

Moses J. Wafer, Pat McCarren's agent in the board, was defeated in the Forty-fourth District by Moloney, the Independence League-Republican candidate.

John J. Haggerty, long the Democratic Alderman from the Tenth District in Manhattan, was defeated by George J. Schneider, the Independence League candidate.

Dr. Quinn, the Independence League leader in Queens, was elected to the board to succeed Clifford.

Tammany Controls Aldermen.

The Legislature will stand Republicans, 96; Democrats, 54, a Republican majority of 42, or four less than in the present Legislature.

The Board of Aldermen, as a result of the voting will pass into the absolute control of Tammany.

One of the surprises of the Aldermanic fight was the defeat of Fred Richter, right hand man for "Pat" McManus, in the Eleventh District by Berger, the Independence League-Republican candidate.

League Vote Big Surprise.

Whitman, Independence League-Republican candidate for judge of General Sessions, received 123,456 votes. Mr. Whitman's total vote was 94,088; Swan, 110,925.

The vote on the other candidates for general sessions was as follows:

Independence League candidates:

Palliser, 85,056.

Vitale, 85,356.

Tammany candidates:

Mahoney, 123,456.

Malone, 115,228.

There were several congratulations as all sides at the individual strength shown by the Independence League men.

Returns from municipal court judgeships in Manhattan are incomplete, but the Tammany candidates undoubtedly have been elected.

POLICE GIVEN GIRL'S PAPER THEFT STORY

Chicago Sleuths Say Miss McLean Has Told Part In Alleged Conspiracy.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Etta L. McLean, under arrest on the charge of stealing copies of papers bearing on the Walsh case, together with Alexander R. Gordee of Boston, was yesterday taken from the county jail for a conference with United States District Attorney Sims and Captain Thomas J. Porter, of the United States secret service.

Miss McLean is understood to have made a full and complete statement of her part in the alleged conspiracy. Gordee, was not examined by Mr. Sims and Captain Porter. Miss McLean seems to have lost all confidence in Gordee.

Gordee's wife wired yesterday that she would not come to Chicago to defend her husband but would provide counsel if necessary. "A beauty in a prison pen." That, in a few words, is the police description of Etta McLean. "Mrs. Wiggs" is only companion and friend, although the living are crowded about her.

To this young woman, whose life is written in a log of storm and stress with hardly a rift in the clouds and never one full day of sunshine and fair sailing, Mrs. Wiggs' troubles and makeshifts were trifling.

Her uniform, too, is like that of no one listed in the service of the ill and unhappy. Her dress of light blue, severely simple in fashion and set off only with a white yoke and a little simple embroidery.

Daughter of Hard Luck.

Her hair, a mass of black, with tell-tale threads of white, is thrown back from her face in a high pompadour. Her eyes, under heavy black brows, are hazel—a fleeting hazel. Their color has been made dim by many baths of tears.

She declares herself to be a real daughter of hard luck, and her sad life story is enough to make the other unfortunates thing themselves very lucky.

"Not one whole day of happiness have I known since I was born.

"No, not a day, not even a few hours, yes. At least I thought I was happy. But I was not myself. It was when I heard music, when I first went to the opera. I lived with the music. I became one of the characters on the stage. I knew the depths of sorrow and the heights of joy—until the curtain fell and the music ended with a sob or a crash of the brass instruments. Then I was myself again.

No Rest for Little Girl.

"I had an illness when I was a tot, a serious illness. It was a long time before I recovered. We were then living in the little village of Amesbury, Mass. My father was an artisan and worked hard at his trade. We were of a straight laced, straight forward Presbyterian family, especially my mother.

"There was but little of play about our house or in the village. It was work, and I had my share to do, even if I did suffer. Recreation was an unknown word to us. Sundays we went to church and Sunday school and remained in the house for the house for the rest of the day, eating a cold dinner. The other days were work days.

"I did not go to school because I could not keep up with my classes.

"We moved to Boston when I went in the public schools. When I was not in school I was needed at home, as my father, my mother or my young brother were constantly ill and I attended them.

Her First Proposal.

"I was barely seventeen when I went to work in Boston for $3 a week. From this I had to pay $2 a week for board at my home, and frequently I give it. But the work was simply work. There was no romance about it.

"After many months of labor and with but little advancement I went to work for Hartwell Stafford as a stenographer. He was an elderly man, a widower, with two daughters. I had not been at his office two weeks before he proposed marriage to me.

"I told my mother. She said it would ruin my life if I married a man so much older than myself. His other daughter was within a few years of my age.

"Stafford again visited us and my mother went to the hospital and was dangerously ill. Mr. Stafford pressed his proposal and I accepted him.

"I had another admirer, or rather persecutor, Stillman M. Bishop. He persisted in his unwelcome attentions and he and Mr. Stafford met in front of my home and came to blows.

"Mr. Stafford armed himself and said he would punish Bishop or make him cease his attentions. I begged him not to make more trouble. He persisted, we quarreled and our engagement was broken off. The next I heard was that Mr. Stafford had shot Mr. Bishop.

Wed Man to Save Him.

"Mr. Stafford's lawyer, his minister, his mother and aunt told me that through pity I should marry Mr. Stafford before his trial in order to save him from going to the penitentiary. Regardless of my own happiness, I obeyed them. The fact that we had been married did not save my husband. He was convicted and sentenced. I was at Stafford's arrest, for I worked until I had procured a pardon for my husband. Then he granted me a divorce.

"I was then employed in Mr. Gordee's office. He represented himself as an unmarried man. I would have nothing to do with him for a long time, but finally consented to go to the opera with him in a party. He loved music. I worshiped it.

Learns Gordee is Married.

"We met on a common ground and I admired him. We became engaged. I thought for a moment that I saw happiness ahead. Then I discovered that he was married. I went away.

"I came to Chicago. I knew no one here. I simply came as far away as I could. I obtained a position in Mr. Sluss's office through an advertisement. Then Mr. Gordee came to Chicago. He told me that he had obtained a divorce from his wife. I believed him. He was trying to establish himself in business and I sympathized with him. He asked me about the affairs of the United States District Attorney's office and I told him.

Realized Mistake Too Late.

"Then I suddenly realized the value of the information I was giving Mr. Gordee, not in a money sense, but that it should not be made public. I questioned him and he became offended.

"I believed that we were to be married. I wanted to make him happy and I continued to get what information I could for him. I cannot believe that he used it wrongfully.

"I was detected and am now in jail."

MORAN NEARLY OVERWHELMED BY ADMIRERS

District Attorney Given Hearty But Terrible Ovation on School Street.

FINALLY ESCAPES CROWD

Gripped in the embrace of a shouting exultant crowd, John B. Moran had a narrow escape from being suffocated by the cheering hundreds who nearly overwhelmed him last night on Bromfield street on his way to his office from Keith's theatre, unmindful of the fact that the popular District Attorney was made of flesh and bones instead of iron.

A squad of police tried bravely but vainly to stem the enthusiastic crowd, but it would take fifteen half the police department of Boston to roll back the tide of mad enthusiasm that swayed the hundreds against the popular idol who with a reporter from the BOSTON AMERICAN and a few friends braced themselves against a store corner of Washington and Bromfield street and sought in vain to get the laughing cheering crowd to allow them room to breathe.

Hurrah for Moran.

Like a conquering army the crowd bore aloft brooms, to which were affixed pictures of Moran and Hisgen. These they waved above their heads with shouts of "Hurrah for John B. Moran."

Mr. Moran paused as if to thank his friends for the grand ovation they were giving him, but in a moment he saw that he would be annihilated with kindness and the fight to reach School street was on. Some of the foremost in the crowd tried to lay hands on the District Attorney to raise him on their shoulders, and this more was frustrated only with extreme difficulty by his friends. The police had long before been overcome and scattered by the crowd, who would not be denied. The policemen were compelled at such a tremendous upheaval that was perfectly lawful and did not call for the exercise of their perrogative.

When School street was finally reached and another legion armed with brooms and Moran placard bearers was encountered. The two armies joined ranks and Mr. Moran, weak and exhausted by such a monster demonstration as is seldom accorded any candidate for civic office, fought his way inch by inch, towards the Parker House. When the forlorn hope that accompanied him finally reached the side door of the Parker House, the gallant District Attorney was about all in.

Cried for Speech.

The crowd, however, did not take this into consideration, and rushed the doors, begging, crying and shouting: "Speech," "Speech," "Speech." Such a thing as a speech at that critical moment to the Moran was about as impossible as flying, and it was with a sigh of gratitude that he felt himself dragged through the folding doors of the Parker House by the hotel attendants who formed a stout phalanx behind him and resisted the pressure of the surging excited throng of the crowd.

Arrived in the reception room of the Parker House, Mr. Moran sank limply into a chair with tears running from his eyes from his strenuous battle. It was a stiffer fight than any political fight the District Attorney had ever had on his hands, and he looked as if he had been through a wringing machine. In a few moments he was escorted to his room, where he was deeded to callers for the night. It was a grand, if a terrible ovation of popular enthusiasm, and Moran as an orator never expects to get more than once in the course of a lifetime.

OFFICER CAPTURES FOUR AT POINT OF REVOLVER

ARLINGTON POLICE BELIEVE ARRESTS WILL REVEAL AUTO BURGLAR MYSTERY.

In the arrest early to-day of four young men, who were taken by Patrolman Andrew Irwin of Arlington at the point of his revolver near Arlington Heights car barn, Chief Urquhart of the Arlington force thinks he may have struck the trail of the sensational automobile burglars who have been operating all over the State this Fall.

One of the quartet, giving his name as Charles F. Jones, was dressed in a chauffeur's uniform. Chief Urquhart has been making search for any automobile that the gang may have stored away, on the theory that a chauffeur's uniform worn by Jones is just a bluff.

Blackjack Drawn.

The arrest was made at 3 a. m. Patrolman Irwin spied the four youths hanging about the carbarn. Recognizing among them Edward Sturgeon, known to the police of Arlington and Boston, Irwin grabbed Sturgeon, who drew a blackjack on the officer if is charged. Irwin pulled his revolver and held up all four till a motorman and a conductor came to his aid. Then Irwin and his aids hustled all four aboard a trolley and rode the four miles to Arlington lock-up.

Chief Urquhart says that on the way to the lockup Sturgeon confessed that he and the others had broken into the provision store of George Spalding on Massachusetts avenue, Lexington. So the four were booked on a charge of breaking and entering.

"Mugged" in Boston.

The other three gave the names of Paul Sturgeon, Joe Delaney and Charles F. Jones, all about twenty years old. The two Sturgeons and Delaney are known to the Boston police.

At 7 o'clock all were brought to Boston, measured and photographed at police headquarters, then taken back to Arlington for a court hearing. Chief Urquhart thinks the arrests may also shed some light in recent breaks in Brookline.

DROP WOMAN'S DEATH PROBE

The mystery in the death of Mrs. Sarah Higgins, whose body was found Saturday in the cellar of the home of her employer in Burlington, will remain unsolved and the police may give up their investigation of the case.

Woburn Police Chief McDermott, together with Detective Byrnes, visited the scene of the tragedy last night, but were unable to find any evidence of violence. Other officers also visited the Stubbs home and after an interview with the woman's employer returned and declared that they believed in all probability drop the case.

The result of the autopsy may be given out to-day.

DESERTS BABY IN CAMBRIDGE HOTEL

The Cambridge police are making every effort to locate a handsomely dressed woman who deserted a five-month-old girl baby at Hotel Comfort, East Cambridge, yesterday afternoon. The woman appeared at the hotel with the baby in her arms and inquired for a man who was registered there. On being told where his room was, she left the office, went upstairs.

Later the wailing of an infant was heard in one of the rooms, and on making an investigation the baby was found lying on a bed. The woman had disappeared.

WOMAN LEADS AS CIVILIZING FORCE HE SAYS

That woman is the civilizing force in education and that her training should be wholly different from that of the average man, were statements made by James P. Munroe of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the opening of the quarter-centennial meeting of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae at the Public Library. He said:

"The average girl and woman should not have the same training or the same goal in education as the average boy or man. Physiology, psychology, biology, all the forces of evolution cry out against it, especially against giving her a college education prescribed by medieval monks for the training of a celibate clergy.

"Woman is supremely the socializing, and therefore the civilizing, force in this marvelous human partnership, brought about, but strictly limited by her sex."

Others who made addresses were Mrs. Florence m. Cushing, one of the original members of the association; Horace G. Wadlin, of the Boston Public Library; LeBaron R. Briggs, president of Radcliffe; William E. Huntington, president of Boston University, and Caroline Hazard, president of Wellesley.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Howe, ex-president of the society, gave the history of the Alumnae.

This morning there are excursions to historical points in Boston and Concord.

GIRLS CHALLENGE MILITIA TO DRILL

Manager Fennessey of the Star Show Girls, now playing at the Columbia Theatre, and one of the best stage directors of the country, is making arrangements with one of the crack militia companies, whom they have challenged, for a competitive drill on the stage of the Columbia to-morrow night, in which the "Military Girls" of his company will be the opponents and he offers a suitable purse for the winners. The young women of his company are well versed in military tactics, their drill and gun practice being the best ever seen on a stage in this city, and those who have seen them in their act are of the opinion that they are unbeatable.

WATCH YOUR TONGUE

If Furred and Coated, It Is a Warning of Trouble to Come.

When it is the morning after the night before, you do not have to look at your tongue to know that the stomach is upset, the head is aching with a dull rhythm, and that all the world looks black and dreary.

It may have been lobster Newburgh, Welsh rarebit or some other tasty dish that looked much better at night than the morning after. There is no need to look at the tongue thermometer then for symptoms of trouble. You naturally go to your box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and with one of the little relievers bring joy and gladness to the physical system.

The real time to watch the tongue is all of the time. If it is coated with a white fur, or possibly with dark trimmings, even though the stomach does not tell you by the acute pains of indigestion that it needs help, yet the coating shows that you are getting into a bad way and that there is need of Mi-o-na.

Used at the first symptom of a coated tongue, distress after eating, headaches, dull and lifeless feeling, flatulence, or say other of the early symptoms of indigestion, Mi-o-na will strengthen the stomach muscles so that they will take care of all the food that is eaten without the slightest pain or discomfort. It will increase the flow of gastric juice so that the food digests as Nature intended it should, extracting the nourishment and strength and expelling the waste from the system without further aid

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

BAKER HYPNOTIZED, CHARGES BROTHER

TWO ARRESTS HOURLY EXPECTED IN DEATH MYSTERY OF HUB CLUBMAN.

Pinkerton detectives, according to Edward F. Baker of No. 209 Newbury street, brother of Walter Farnsworth Baker, rich Boston clubman, who died in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hurd in Dedham, N. J., from the effects of a dose of chloral hydrate, to-day unearthed information which will lead to two arrests within a few hours and two more before the week ends. Mr. Baker makes the remarkable declaration that his brother was hypnotized into making his will.

The key to the mystery, Edward Baker declares, was furnished the detective to-day by G. W. Brittingham, who was with the party that accompanied Walter Baker the night he died.

"What Mr. Brittingham has told the detectives will make it possible for them to make two arrests before to-night," said Mr. Baker, "and other arrests will soon follow."

"Under Hypnotic Spell."

"I have excellent reasons for believing that my brother was hypnotized into making the will we found in the Boston safety deposit vault. He could not have been in his normal mental condition when he made that will. He was under a hypnotic spell when he did many other things which I cannot speak of now.

"An extraordinary influence was exerted over him by a man and a woman. I have seen letters from that woman demanding money from him, and he seemed to fear them. I know that he often gave them money. I shall fight this thing to the end and contest the will."

Mr. Baker is ill at his home and under the constant care of a physician.

Denies Second Will.

"The statement that a will had been found in New York or New Jersey is false," declared Attorney Frank N. Nay to-day. "If Mr. Koester says he saw a will in New York he is not telling the truth. The only will is the one we found in Boston resting receipt."

Mr. Nay further said: "The coils are being slowly drawn about the conspirators and arrests will be sprung when the evidence against them is completed. The will was deposited in the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co., No. 42 Milk street, by Mr. Nay's office."

Will Remains In Vault.

The will is still at the deposit company's. Attorney F. N. Nay, who represents Walter Baker's brother, was permitted to read it yesterday, but the deposit company refused to give it into his possession, since no executors of the estate are named. Should any document appointing executors be produced here or in New York, such executors would in the ordinary course of things be the persons to be entrusted with the temporary keeping of the will.

Coroner A. D. Lees of Bergen County, N. J., declared to-day that he would order the return to Boston from Boston of Baker's body.

HEIRESS UNDER BAKER'S WILL

SPENCERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 6.—"Straight on to Chicago," was the cry of Edward Payson Weston, the middle-aged walker, who is striving to beat his record of forty years ago from Portland to Chicago, as he started from this town this morning at 5 o'clock. "I'm headed now straight across New York State, in a direct line for my destination, and the best of all I commence this stage of my trip feeling better than any time during the trip."

At Troy, N. Y., between 1 and 2 o'clock to-day and he anticipates a red-hot reception there as word has reached him that the biggest reception of the tramp has been planned. He intends to spend there two hours and then push on to Schenectady for the night. Weston is set to win, and says he will during the first few days of his tramp. He has averaged more than fifty miles a day, which is considerably over his average on the trip forty years ago. After his big record of Monday he decided to loaf a bit for a day or so, and in loafing along he made fifty miles, enjoying the scenery and as he said "Killing time." Weston has written to President Roosevelt asking his sister, Mrs. Cooke, whom he will give him a bowl of tea at Farmington, Ct.

ROXBURY MAN ENDS HIS LIFE

William Rosen, sixty-seven years old, of No. 137 Howard avenue, Roxbury, was discovered by the police of the Dedham street station to-day in the tailor shop at No. 4 Compton street in an unconscious condition from inhaling gas.

He was sitting in a chair with a gas tube in his mouth, the end of which was attached to a gas jet. The gas was turned on at full force.

He was hurried to the hospital, but died on the way. It is supposed that he committed suicide from despondency.

VORENBERG'S TO BRANCH OUT

I. Vorenberg & Company of Winter street have secured a new store at No. 232 Boylston street, opposite Arlington, which will be thrown open to the public store's thousands of customers on Monday next.

The new store, which is almost as large as the one now occupied by the firm, will be temporarily used as a branch so as to relieve the crowded conditions prevailing now on Winter street.

With their enormous facilities of buying for cash, with their direct connections with Europe and Japan, with their constant desire of going ahead, there can be no doubt but that this new store will be just as busy as the one now on Winter street.

One of the firm, being interviewed upon this latest venture, said: "The confidence we have in the hearts of the New England people is demonstrated daily by the ever increasing volume of our business. Our customers demand more room, and we cannot extend any further here, so had to look elsewhere. The branch store will be open until January 1st, 1908."

VANDERBILT DINNER FOR POOR BOYS

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 6.—For the fourteenth time Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt of Hyde Park on the Hudson and Newport, will give the newsboys, messenger and other small boys about town, to the number of some 400, who are not too proud to accept, a bountiful dinner at Masonic Hall, replendent with flags and bunting, Thanksgiving Day afternoon.

Upon leaving the hall every boy will be given a pound package of candy and an apple to take home with him. After the band has played "Good-bye, Summer Time, Good-bye," the lads will give three cheers for their benefactress, Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Those who thought Mrs. Vanderbilt would tire of this dinner giving for the boys have found themselves very much mistaken. Somehow or other nobody ever gossips about Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, though she is just as well known in Newport as any of the other Vanderbilt matrons.

Miss Amelia J. Tanner will be in supreme charge of the dinner arrangements, as usual.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Crushed and mangled almost beyond recognition, the body of Pitti Catherine Carroll was lifted from beneath the heavy trucks of an electric car on Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn.

To her home lies the mother, dying, the doctors fear, from the shock. And up and down the stricken house the father, John Carroll, walks—walks—walks incessantly, almost crazed by grief.

Little Catherine—she was thirteen years old—was one of a merry crowd of children about a great bonfire on Ryerson street. Just as she was crossing Myrtle avenue car No. 4,263 came along.

The motorman reversed the power and threw on the brakes, but too late. The fender struck the child, knocking her down, and then, being one of the useless kind, slid over her.

The cruel wheels crushed the little body beyond recognition, and it was with great difficulty that the car was lifted and the body removed. Soon after it was placed in a shell and covered the lifeless form with it.

The mother had been told but a few minutes before, and when she saw the men approaching with their burden she screamed once, the neighbors say, and then fainted.

A physician was unable to revive her. Finally he said that a priest should be called—he did not believe the mother ever would speak again.

Catarrh of The Stomach

A Most Dangerous Disease, Which Causes Serious Results, Unless Properly Treated.

Catarrh of the Stomach is very common and is known as one of the most obstinate diseases, which, when neglected or improperly treated with cheap patent medicines, doctors, drugs, pills, and other secret quack remedies results in a broken down constitution and often consumption and death.

Catarrh of the Stomach, like every other disease of the stomach, except cancer, is the result of poor digestion. The digestive organs have become weak, there is a lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and as a result you become effected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, heartburn, vomiting, waterbrash, tenderness at pit of stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs and face, sleeplessness, nausea, belching of gas, diarrhoea, sick headaches, dizziness, mental depression, nervous weakness, and many other common symptoms.

If your stomach cannot digest the food you eat, then the stomach needs a rest, as that is the only way you can get rid of your catarrh, but in the meantime your body needs plenty of nourishment, because you must live, and in order to live you must eat, and if you must eat, your food must be properly digested, and if your stomach is too weak to do the work, then you must get a substitute that will do the work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only known substitute that will digest your food as well as any healthy stomach. They contain vegetable and fruit essences, aseptic pepsin (gov. test), golden seal and diastase, the very elements necessary to digest all foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy and for that very reason thousands of physicians all over the United States recommend them to their patients for catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia of all kinds, and other stomach troubles. Experiments and tests have proven that one grain of the active principle contained in these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and are sold in large fifty-cent boxes at all drug stores.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a free sample package. The relief you will get from this trial package alone will convince you of the merits of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

4 SHOT; ONE IS KILLED IN ELECTION ROW

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 6.—Following an election day duel, Lucien Clyde Campbell was killed, Patrolman Michael Murphy probably fatally wounded, and Patrolman Henry Smith and W. A. Campbell, Clyde Campbell's father, severely wounded.

The older Campbell, who was a Republican candidate for constitution, was arrested after he had protested against what he termed election frauds. His son came to his assistance and was shot by Murphy. W. R. Campbell then shot Murphy, who returned the fire, killing his son, although himself probably fatally hurt.

BALLOT NO. 87 IS PRESIDENT'S

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt travelled all the way from Washington to Oyster Bay and back to-day to vote. He was greeted by the cheering, enthusiastic, affectionate crowd which always meets him on his arrival at his home town. His cousin, Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, drove him to the polling place.

He is a familiar figure in Fleet's Hall as Main and South streets. He shook hands with every one in the room before he asked for his ballot.

The President votes ballot No. 87, announced Election Clerk John Mills in a loud voice.

The President retired into the canvass booth and no one saw him mark for exactly four minutes.

"He must be scratching his ballot," remarked the townspeople.

SCHOONER SINKS WITH COAL CARGO

BIDDEFORD, Me., Nov. 6.—The two-masted schooner Susan Stetson of Rockport, bound from South Amboy for Camden with 221 tons of coal, sank fifty miles southeast of Biddeford Pool yesterday. Captain Bulmer and his crew of three men, rescued from working the pumps for a whole day, abandoned their craft, and in their yawl managed to reach Biddeford Pool.

STEVENS SAILS BALLOON 8,500 FEET IN AIR

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Nov. 6.—After sailing 140 miles part of the time 8,500 feet in the air, Charles J. Glidden and Leon Stevens, the aeronauts who started in the Stevens balloon from Pittsfield, Mass., landed at North Springfield. The descent was made so easily that Mr. Glidden declared an egg shell would not have been broken by the basket as it touched the ground.

Before reaching Rockingham, the aeronauts allowed the balloon to reach an elevation of 8,500 feet in order to escape the storm. The temperature became rapidly cooler, but the balloonists remained in the elevation until the storm had been passed. They then dropped within 250 feet of the earth and emerged with people below, who gave them their bearings. Mr. Glidden said the trip, which was their second ascension, was interesting.

The most thrilling event was when the balloon was caught in a wind eddy and driven around the top of a lofty hill.

PRODUCERS READY FOR WAR ON MILK TRUST

Milk producers are busily preparing for their campaign against the Boston Milk Trust.

Orders for additional cans are expected to-morrow. If is hoped to place the order for the second 1,000 cans with the factory at an early date.

C. W. Wood, as chairman of the committee, received a letter yesterday from the State Board of Railroad Commissioners, stating that November 18 is the date of the hearing in milk transportation. It is understood that attorneys for all the railroads will be represented at the hearing, which will be held at the State House.

From the milk producers' standpoint, the argument will be quite extended.

It is believed that Mr. Wood will be ready in a day or two to announce his committee of eleven that is to formulate plans in detail for the independent shipping of milk.

If Love Is Absent An Engagement Is Far Better Broken

By Beatrice Fairfax

ARE you engaged, and if so, are you happy in your engagement?

Sometimes a girl becomes engaged because she is in love with being loved, rather than with the man.

She may be getting along toward thirty and feels that her chances are growing less. So, to avoid that nightmare of all girls—old maidom—she accepts a man whom she does not really love.

She says to herself, "There are certain things about him that I do not like, but anything is better than being an old maid."

Right there she makes a great mistake, for there are many things worse than being an old maid, and marrying a man you don't love is the chief of them.

Always remember that faults that seem small enough in a fiance may assume giant proportions in a husband.

Don't marry just for the sake of being addressed as "Mrs.," and don't marry for the sake of a home.

If you are strong and capable, it is better to earn your own living than to marry a man you don't love, and if you are delicate and incapable you have no right to burden any man with looking after you.

Breaking Engagements

IF, having become engaged to a man, you find that you do not care enough for him to marry him, break the engagement.

It will not be an easy thing to do, but it is kinder to the man to break with him than to marry him without love.

If girls were not so apt to become engaged upon short acquaintance there would be fewer broken engagements and unhappy marriages.

Having known a man for a month, do you consider that you know him well enough to enter into a lifelong partnership with him?

To be happily married is the best fate that can befall any woman.

But for two people to dwell together in peace and amity for a month or two there should be endless love and the best of good fellowship between them. They must be congenial, they must possess tact and patience.

Even with all this, there will sometimes be friction. What, then, must it be like where these qualities are lacking? A broken engagement is better than a divorce.

Some girls enter into engagements with no real idea of marriage. I have known girls who were engaged to two or three men at the same time and were proud of it.

They seemed to have an idea that being so much engaged made belles of them.

In reality they had nothing to be proud of, and probably ended by being the only thing they were trying to avoid—old maids.

Not Always Girl's Fault

"ILT" is not a nice term to apply to a girl, but that is just what the girl is who deliberately enters into an engagement with no idea of marriage. To accept a man's love in that way is heartless and unwomanly.

It is quite another thing to break an engagement after earnest thought and conviction that you will not be able to live happily with a man.

Very often a girl will write to me on the sly, eye of her wedding day, telling me that she does not love the man, but hates to break the engagement at the eleventh hour.

I invariably advise her to break it off if she is absolutely sure that she does not love him, and usually add a little sisterly scolding as to the advisability of allowing her own mind to be made up before.

But mistakes will happen. Sometimes men change greatly after they feel sure that he has won a girl. Little characteristics will crop up that the girl had no idea existed and the small faults are the ones that kill love.

So, you see, it is not always the girl's fault when she backs out of her marriage at the last moment.

It frequently happens that she is forced into appearing in a false light.

So don't be too hard on her. Remember that she may have the best of reasons.

And you, little sisters, who are worrying over unsatisfactory engagements, do not feel that you must marry men whom you do not love. For nothing brings more wretchedness than a loveless marriage.

Are Pretty Girls Apt to Be Stupid?

CAN a girl be a beauty and at the same time brainy? Is the development of the mind necessarily attended by sacrifice of good looks? These most interesting questions, brought to the front by a writer who holds that the perfect girl is always the stupidest, are here answered in a most convincing manner by Mrs. Arthur Stannard, who is known to the world as John Strange Winter, the famous English novelist and writer.

By John Strange Winter

MY astounded eyes have fallen upon this paragraph: "The plain fact is that the prettiest girls are notoriously the stupidest, and, if none but the ugly girls could get married, whatever result their ability might have on the nation of the future, it would not take long before there were no types of beauty left to lighten the burden of a weary world."

And I am wondering whether the paper printing this paragraph is what is popularly called "kidding" its readers, or whether it stands in need of serious specialized attention.

"The plain fact is that the prettiest girls are notoriously the stupidest." On the contrary, the ugly girls are not half as intelligent as the bright and pretty girls.

"Dislike Ugly Persons"

I do not say that we cannot find instances where ugly girls are acutely intelligent, or pretty girls who are as stupid as dolls, but those are the exception so far as my experience goes.

As for ugly women I am praised for it. I regard personal good looks as the outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace, and I so carry out this belief in that the first I can possibly avoid it I never have a very ugly person about me.

Nothing would induce me to have a servant to live in my house who was exceedingly plain, and I have certainly found my belief during my twenty-three years of married life justified by the results.

It is by no means the plainest women who make the best mothers. If the writer of the paragraph thinks so I can only say him that he is making a mistake.

Take the field of nursing. It is the bright, smart, comely nurses who do the highest work. Take the field of shopkeeping. Why, our shopgirls are picked out because of their looks. Do you find lack of intelligence among them? Ye gods, no!

Take the field of the stage, but I think you will find intinitely more good-looking women than ugly ones. Have they no intelligence? Are they stupid?

Take any profession you point out one in which ugliness is synonymous with intelligence? I do not think so.

An Aid to Beauty

Of course, I must admit that there is a certain type of woman who if she were not intelligent would be ugly—that is to say, who has not exquisitely molded features, or languishing eyes, or strikingly fair complexion. But no mind in that case would possibly be quite ugly, whereas in actuality one must in fairness put her on the side of the good-looking sisterhood.

HOW LONG CAN A MAN KEEP THIS UP ON $12 A WEEK?

STUDY the problem and the burden of this young man. His salary is $12 a week. He has a dear old mother, whose needs must be supplied. He has a young woman friend—his sweetheart, whom he would make his wife if he could afford to marry. As it is, he feels called upon to give her flowers and bonbons occasionally, to take her to a theatre now and then, for himself, he must be respectful to be well dressed and neat if he is ever to get ahead in business. How long can he keep it up—at only $12 a week? What is his best way out of his dilemma.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

BY THE PROFESSOR

ONE of the things that mark a woman as beautiful is her carriage. She may have the face never so pretty, if it is fastened to a trunk that humps and bumps along in a lumbering manner, she will attract little attention.

The modern corset is so built that a grace and slimness can be secured by even the ordinary figure, and, best of all, it does not interefere with the breathing and the expansion of the lungs to their fullest extent.

Be sure, then, first of all that you wear a corset that is comfortable and does not cramp your lungs; then see to it that your abdomen is pushed into the background, to an extent that the cosmic papers would make you believe is fashionable, but simply held in abeyance to the chest, which must be held outward and upward.

The cosmic thought should be held in the mind that the higher, nobler parts of the body, the chest and the head, must be held up and leading. The psychological value of this thought is what gives the woman with the correct carriage that exquisite ability to take care of herself.

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me of something that will reduce my bust? I don't want something that is harmless. Would a certain remedy harm me or would it reduce my flesh.

ANXIOUS.

BATHING the bust with alcohol twice a day will reduce it, and is perfectly harmless. I do not know the remedy you mention, but, as a rule, it is wise to avoid preparations when you do not know of what they are made.

FILLING OUT WRINKLES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Can paraffin be injected under the skin so as to form flesh? I am a victim of a deep dimple wrinkle, and massaging does not seem to do any good.

A. T. H.

YES, some specialists use paraffin to fill out wrinkles and hollows so that they entirely disappear. Massaging will cream instead of the warm water, or do little good for very deep wrinkles, but use witchhazel or alcohol.

If you paste them up with wrinkle plasters you may cook them into the habit of being smooth. This paraffin does not form flesh, but is so nearly the color of flesh that it can be injected under the skin for the purpose named.

WARM WATER ON FACE

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I have been washing my face in warm water and carbolic soap. Some people say it is too strong for the face, but will refer the question to you.

C. J.

IF you do not use too much carbolic acid in the water it will not harm the skin, but, on the contrary, is good for it. It is slightly drying, but if you are using any kind of cream on the face the slight drying quality will not affect it. But stop using the warm water on the face as you will make it flabby the first thing you know. Hot water is necessary once in a while to open the pores in order to cleanse them, but cold water should be used immediately after in order to close the pores. Use a good cleansing

"THE TURN OF THE BALANCE"

A Thrilling Story of American Life by Brand Whitlock

CHAPTER XX.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE reason why Archie had not answered his father's letter was simple enough. On the Sunday afternoon while Koerner and Marriott were sitting on the stoop, Archie, stripped to the waist, was hanging by his wrists from the ceiling of a dungeon, called a bull cell, in the cellar under the chapel, his bare feet just touching the floor.

He had been hanging there for three days. At night, he was let down and given a piece of bread and a cup of water, and allowed to lie on the floor, still handcuffed. At morning guards came, raised Archie, lifted him up, and chained his wrists to the bull rings. Later, Deputy Warden Ball sauntered by with his cane hooked over his arm, peered in through the bars, smiled, and said, in his peculiar soft voice:

"Well, Archie, my boy, had enough?"

McBride, the contractor, who had picked Archie out of the gang of new convicts in the idle house the day after he arrived at the prison, had set him to work in a shop known as "Hell B."

His work was to make iron bolts, and all day long, from 7 in the morning until 5 in the afternoon, he stood with one foot on the treadle, sticking little bits of iron into the maw of the machine and snatching them out again.

All weekdays were alike. On Sunday they went to chapel and listened to the chaplain talk about Christ, who, it was said, came to preach deliverance to the captives. The chaplain told the convicts they could save their souls in the world to which they would go when they died, if they believed in Christ.

Archie did not understand what it was that he was expected to believe, any more than he had when the sky pilot at the works had told every month the same thing. It could not be that they expected him to believe that Christ came to preach deliverance to captives such as he.

So he paid no attention to the sky pilot. He found it more interesting to watch the death squad, who, as likely to go to the world before any of the others, were given seats in the front pews. Next the death squad were several convicts in chains. They were considered to be extremely bad and greatly in need of religion.

The authorities, it seemed, were determined to give them religion, even if they had to hold them in chains while they did so. In the corners of the chapel behind protecting iron bars, were guards armed with rifles, who vigilantly watched the convicts while the chaplain preached to them the religion of the gentle Nazarene.

The chaplain said it was the religion of the gentle Nazarene, but in reality it was the religion of Moses, or something out of Paul, and even of later men that he preached to the convicts rather than the religion of Jesus. The convicts did not know this, however. Neither did the chaplain.

Prison Cruelties

Yes, the days were exactly alike, especially as to the work, for Archie was required to turn out hundreds of bolts a day; a minimum number was fixed, and this was called a "task."

If he did not do this task, he was punished. It was difficult to perform this task; only by toiling incessantly every minute could he succeed. And even then it was hard, for in addition to keeping his eye on his machine he had to keep his eye on the pile of bolts beside him, for the other convicts would rat; that is, steal from his pile in order to lessen their own tasks.

For those bolts that were spoiled, Archie was given no credit; every spoil on inspector came around, looked the bolts over and threw out those that were defective. For every bolt which was unpaid and in which he took no pride and found no joy because it was only and without any result to him, Archie felt nothing but loathing.

This feeling was common among all the men in the shop; they resorted to all sorts of devices to escape it; some of them allowed the machines to snip off the ends of their fingers so they could work one more; others found a friend in Sweeny, the confidence man, who was serving a five year sentence, and was detailed as a steward in the hospital.

When they were in the hospital Sweeny would burn the end of a finger with acid, rub dirt on it, and when it festered suggest the finger.

Bolden, who worked a machine next to Archie, did that; but only as a last resort; "it's no use for me to learn the trade," he said to Archie one day when the guard was at the other end of the shop.

"Why not?"

"Cause I'll be on the street in two months; my mouthpiece's going to take my case to the Supreme Court, and he's going to get me a new trial. All I got to do's to raise a hundred and fifty cases; I've written to my mouthpiece, and she's already up seventy-eight. There's nothing to it. My lawyer has some diamond links for Methodist—I guess not!"

Bolden talked a great deal about his case in the Supreme Court. Many of the convicts did that. They did everything to raise money for their lawyers.

After Bolden's attorney had taken the case up, and failed, Bolden made application for pardon; and this required more money. His mother was saving up again. But this failed also; then Bolden feigned sickness, was sent to the hospital, and they all admired him for his success.

In the Hospital

Archie was sick once, and after three sick calls—he was, in prison parlance, utterly miserable and suffered greatly—the physician, who, like every one else in the penitentiary, was controlled by the contractors, gave in and sent him to the hospital.

Though the hospital was a filthy place, Archie for two days enjoyed the rest he found there, when Sweeny told him that the bed he occupied had not been changed since a consumptive had died in it the day before Archie arrived.

"You can't kill him that pad," said Sweeny, "and the croakers'll be peddling your stiff in a month."

Sweeny was accounted very wise, as indeed he was; for he held his position by reason of his discovery that the doctor was supplying his brother, who kept a drug store, with drugs, medicines, milk bandages, plasters and surgical instruments.

Archie was there for a week, struck to Bolt B.

"Stand out, you toaster," he said.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

MAN'S PLACE TO PROPOSE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a pretty looking girl. I have been keeping company with her for the last few months; she loves me and I love her. One thing I admire her for is she works every day, dresses neatly and is clean. She has not mentioned anything about getting married, so what would you advise me to do?

M. D.

YOU surely don't expect her to do the proposing. You are the one to first speak of getting married. No self-respecting girl would speak of it first. Buck up your courage and propose to her. That is the quickest and easiest way to settle the matter.

A FICKLE YOUNG MAN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going out with a young man, who, by his actions, owns for me, but a number of my friends tell me that he keeps steady company with a young lady. Last week I was out with him three times and my lady friend met him Sunday night with this girl. I have never spoken to him about this girl and I thought I would write to you to see if you could help me out, as I love him very much.

ANXIOUS MAY.

THE man is fickle and not to be relied upon. I think your going with him is a waste of time. If he goes with two girls he does not really care for either of them. My advice would be to have nothing more to do with him.

GARDEN AUTO SHOW BEST EVER HELD

No End of Good Things in the Motor World Are to Be Seen.

BY J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Talk as one will, there is no denying the fact that the motor show now being held in Madison Square Garden is the greatest and most complete ever held in this country. It is staged attractively, neatly, and absence of all filligree in decorative matter is decidedly restful to the eye. It detracts not one whit from the excellency of construction and finish of the handsome cars.

There is one thing about this show that makes a strong impression on the veterans. It is the absence of those people who have heretofore visited a motor show because they thought it just the right and proper thing to do, not because they were really interested in motor vehicles. A few years ago the average visitor knew little or nothing about internal explosion engines, and consequently took up no end of time asking technical questions about the mechanisms of the machines displayed.

Visitors More Intelligent.

The average visitor of to-day has a very fair knowledge of both the theory and practice of automobile construction. The most astonishing number of visitors make inquiry concerning maintenance expenses of a car, how many miles it will travel on a gallon of gasoline, the consumption of lubricating oil for a journey of 100 miles and the probable life of a set of tires. This at least shows that the general public is rapidly being educated to a state where it can judge for itself, and that the successful salesman must necessarily stick pretty close to the truth.

It is the buyer who is visiting this show more than ever. Of course the dealer is here from all sections of the country, but never has there been such an attendance of retail purchasers, in fact and in figures, that have crowded the show these last three days. There is more than one to study and digest. No one particular car seems to have any great advantage over another, owing unquestionably to the efforts towards standardization so much fostered by the A. M. L. A.

One of the Novelties.

One of the great novelties in the commercial line, at the present show, is a large multiple unit road train made by a firm in Pittsfield, Mass. It is composed of two cars and a tractor, each carrying a capacity of from six to eight tons and carrying its own motors, power for which is furnished by the so-called tractor. The multiple unit road train has been very successful in other countries, but is a novelty in these parts. Foreign governments have found its use most advantageous. It is suited for the work of lime and other quarry men, flour mills, mines, coal merchants, grain handlers, brewers, agriculturists, etc. The cost of haulage is reduced and the amount of material that can be handled in one day greatly increased.

The train is operated on what is known as the gasoline-electric with variable advantage and series-parallel controls. Power is furnished by an internal combustion engine running at a slow rate of piston speed and of power depending on the number and capacity of the cars on the train. The engine drives a dynamo which furnishes current to the motors on the tractor and on each of the trail cars.

Thomas Company Exhibit.

Messrs. Whitten and Gilmore, who are to handle the Thomas line in Boston, are among the most active at the show, they being in constant attendance at the Thomas booth. The Thomas line as a whole is particularly attractive, it consisting of the Thomas Flyer, Thomas Detroit and the Thomas cab or town car. In every feature it bears the latter features represent marked advances of their kind and make them additional interest. Following the initiative set by several French makers, the four-cylinder engine has been made in a single simple casting, this tending greatly to make it much more compact. Cals being one of the essentials desired also in the power plant of a car intended solely or for city use. To the same end the forward part of the frame has been narrowed to a much greater extent than usual in order to have an extra amount of space between it and the front wheels, thus obtaining a particularly small turning radius, so that these cars will be able to get around in narrow streets without reversing. Another of their features that will attract unusual interest is the elimination of the pump, the thermo-siphon having been adopted.

In line with the policy adopted by the Detroit factory it will devote its entire attention to the production of a single chassis for 1908 as it did during the present season. Its rating remains the same as that which gave it a distinctive title when first brought out, i. e., forty horsepower, though its appellation has been altered to that of Thomas Detroit, in order to better distinguish it from the product of the Buffalo works.

The same type of power plant, in fact, practically the same in all respects throughout, characterizes the new model as did its predecessor. The cylinders are cast in pairs, with liberal water jackets, the valves, spark plugs, carburetor, circulating pumps and manifold all being placed on one side. The crank shaft bearings are of liberal dimensions and are of special alloy. All the timing gears, magneto and the oil and water pump driving gears are placed in a special oil tight housing. Lubrication by high tension method and dry cells, the latter acting solely as a reserve. It is shown in both touring and runabout types.

At the Knox Booth.

Both air and water-cooled cars are to be found at the Knox booth, where A. F. Underhill and Frank Crockett of the Reid-Underhill Company are doing a rushing business.

The models shown include the new Model L, water-cooled thirty-thirty horsepower, which has attracted the attention of the very best automobile designers in the country and the long line of air-cooled cars. In the Knox construction the cylinder heads are bolted to the cylinder proper, making it possible to machine the combustion chamber, and by taking the heads off which is easily and quickly done, the pistons and rings can be cleaned and examined. The use of individual cylinders makes a much better cooling system as well as more accessible. In a twenty-four hour contest at Springfield each of these Model L cars covered 705 miles on the road and never bolted the water in that time. The general construction of the chassis is the same as in the Model H air-cooled, which needs no introduction to a large number of them are already in use in Boston.

The types exhibited are polished chassis model L touring car, with detachable surrey type rear seat, listing at $2,700; Model H sportabout, with detachable double tonneau, at $2,558; H-5 passenger touring car at $2700; H toolbox roadster, listed as gray whipcord, $3,500; a Model G, 50-horse power, seven-passenger touring car, at $4,000; H four-cylinder three-ton truck and a twelve-ton truck are also exhibited in the commercial department.

With the other changes in the 1908 Pope-Toledo cars a bit of engine betterment is shown that is perhaps one of the most striking illustrations of the advancement of these cars possible to be shown. That betterment is the complete change of the engine with a double system of ignition throughout, so that ignition troubles is almost impossible. The sets of ignition are separate and operate independently or together through separate sets of spark plugs, located as usual in the tops of the cylinder heads.

One of the ignition systems is the 1908 Eisenman magneto and coil, the other is a storage battery and four-unit vibrating coil and commutator.

Each system is connected independently with its own set of spark plugs, which are located upon opposite sides of the cylinders, by thus supplying and connecting these two systems a decided advantage is given the operator who is accustomed to one system, which he can use while becoming accustomed to the other.

The battery and the two coils are located under the seat, the latter providing these two separate coils and these two separate lighting systems thereby insuring at least should be unheard of in a Pope-Toledo.

The water chambers on top of the cylinders have been enlarged so that the engine carries three pints more of water than ever before. All the water pipes have been generously enlarged so that they will be of longer life and greater efficiency than ever before.

LABOR NEWS

UNITED BROTHERHOOD OF PRINTING TRADES UNION COUNCIL 96 BOSTON MASS.

Section 25, Bill of Rights of the Constitution of Oklahoma, declares:

"The Legislature shall pass laws defining contempts and regulating the proceedings and punishments in matters of contempt; provided, that any person accused of violating or disobeying, when not in the presence or hearing of the court, may be tried as such, any order of injunction or restraint, made or entered by any court or judge of the State, shall, before penalty or punishment is imposed, be entitled to a trial by jury as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, in no case shall a penalty or punishment be imposed for contempt until an opportunity to be heard is given."

This, according to George H. Shibley, is the first instance in this country in which government by injunction has been terminated, and that it is a demonstration that the pathway to liberty is found.

Oklahoma's success is the immediate result of the non-partisan plan of campaign decided upon by the executive committee of the A. F. of L., in September, 1901, and the following December proposed to the A. F. of L. Convention by President Gompers. A wide-spread investigation of measures for public office was suggested, the interrogation to be for the restoration of the people's rule, with the co-operation by all citizens who oppose machine rule.

In many States and nationally the program is under way.

Representative Norman H. White, manager of the Boston Book Bindery at Cambridge, has conceded the eight-hour day to his help, who went out on strike October 1. The strike threw out 269 women and 392 men.

It is claimed that the firms of Plympton & Co. and Rand and Pierce, Harvard Court Co., Borith Co., MacDonald & Sons, R. L. Jones, Boston Leather Binding Co., all of Boston, have refused to discuss the situation with representatives of organized labor. The continuation of the strike, the men say, is due to the refusal of these firms to confer with them, and they are more determined than ever to gain their demands, looking forward to a speedy settlement of the strike.

ALLEGED WIFE SLAYER TRIED IN DARKNESS

Sensational Close of First Day's Session at Hearing of Harvey Searles.

FARMINGTON, Me., Nov. 6.—There was a sensational close to the first day's session of the trial of Harvey A. Searles, charged with the murder of his wife, Phyllis, on July 14, in Chesterville, when Dr. Harry Coulter, describing the course of the bullet, which entered the body, darkness enshrouded the courtroom and the Judge closed the trial for the day, and people holding matches, lit the way for the crowd to the courtroom to escape.

Harvey Searles, the man accused of murder, who had sat during the afternoon with his head resting upon his hand, seemingly oblivious to the points made and to the testimony given concerning the scene of the tragedy, remained with out official custody in the dark.

It was early in the day to try Searles is composed of the following men: W. W. Small, Farmington, foreman; George Ramsdell, Weld; Daniel P. Hobart, Farmington; R. Frank Savage, Avon; E. C. Judkins, Carthage; Burton S. Hiltonsh, Farmington; G. E. Berry, Salem; Americus Vespucius Hinds, Kingfield; Lemuele L. Niles, Dallas Plantation; S. G. Woodcock, Farmington; E. M. Gile, Rangeley Plantation and Dennis Smith, Farmington.

It was known early in the questioning of E. E. Richards, counsel for the prisoner, that the defense was to be that of insanity that the unwritten law was to be abandoned.

The father and mother of the prisoner have arrived from Rangeley and to-day the children, Emma and Sherwood, will come from the state of the grandparents.

It was for this boy, Sherwood, that the prisoner, on his return to Rangeley, went fifty miles to Chesterville and stole him from his cradle, walking with him through the woods to Fairbanks Station, where officers found the child in his possession, half clothed.

Doctors D. B. Sanborn and H. W. Mitchell of the Insane Asylum in Augusta, who have had Searles under observation for five weeks, took the most interested spectators of the opening of the trial.

Anty Drudge and the Millionaire's Wife.

Mrs. Envius—"Just because Mrs. Swell's husband has made a million dollars is no reason she should put on airs. I can remember the day when she washed clothes for the millmen right here in this town."

Anty Drudge—"Yes, so can I; and she isn't a bit ashamed of it. She was just telling me yesterday about the first time she used Fels-Naptha in her washing. It made her work so easy that she had time to be bright and happy and help her man along."

It saves you money.

That's a queer thing to say of soap.

But it's true of Fels-Naptha.

How? Simple as A, B, C.

Clothes cost money. When you boil clothes you weaken their fibre just as you soften meat or vegetables by boiling. Hard-rubbing wears them out.

When you wash clothes with Fels-Naptha you neither boil nor hard-rub them. Fels-Naptha does the work far better in cold or lukewarm water in half the time and bother.

Your clothes will wear twice as long if washed with Fels-Naptha. And they'll be cleaner, whiter and sweeter after every washing than you could get them in any other way.

100 PRIESTS AT FUNERAL

LEWISTON, Nov. 6.—The funeral of Rev. Monsignor Thomas H. Wallace, pastor of St. Patrick's church, was held yesterday. Rt. Rev. Lewis S. Walsh, D. D., bishop of the diocese, officiated at the pontifical mass and pronounced the eulogy. He was assisted by Very Rev. M. C. McDonough, V. G., of Bangor.

Two of the Dominican Fathers of this city led the chanting of the office for the dead by 100 priests of the three states and more than 100 present from many parts of the New England States.

Excessive Drinking

Excessive or continued use of alcoholic beverages always results in a diseased condition of the nervous system.

The drinking man is often heard to say, "I can stop of my own free will and when I wish." Such the poor fellow is now devoid of the power to act at the proper time and in the right way—it's too late, the craving has secured a firm hold and be cause of the diseased nervous system he has not the ability for sustained effort. The result we all know.

Drunkenness is no longer considered a crime; eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

FRISCO VOTERS DEAL GRAFTERS STINGING BLOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 6.—The result of the election in this city is a triumph for prosecution of the graft investigation and imprisonment of the grafters, inaugurated by District Attorney William H. Langdon. Both were bold and fearless prosecutors. Langdon was re-elected to continue in office by a plurality claimed to be 25,000.

P. H. McCarthy, the union labor candidate, showed surprising strength, running ahead of Daniel A. Ryan, the Republican candidate.

The vote was unusually heavy on account of the interest in the candidacy of Langdon for re-election to the office of District Attorney. The result means that the people of San Francisco are overwhelmingly in favor of driving out the Schmitzes and Ruefs.

An incident of the day was the voting of the Thirty-first Petit Jury, whose hearing of the bribery case against the general counsel of the United Railways was interrupted and suspended by the public holidays now instituted by Governor Gillette.

The trial twelve voted in eight Assembly districts and several precincts. They were taken in squads of four to the voting places under guard.

Twenty charter amendments were voted on. The more important of these proposed amendments, from popular viewpoint, provide as follows:

Raising the interest limit on municipal bonds from four to five per cent and enabling seven year leases; removal of delinquent public officials; empowering the board of supervisors to fix and regulate the rates for the telephone service.

LYNN COUPLES WED IN SECRET

LYNN, Nov. 6.—The facts in connection with two secret weddings of Lynn couples which occurred at Pawtucket last Friday, have just become known here. On that day Miss Stella M. Wilson and Alfred James Hill, who were to have been married on Thanksgiving, decided to carry the event and slipped away to Pawtucket.

On their arrival there they sought out the residence of the Rev. W. M. Barney, a brother of Mayor Barney of Lynn, to be married, only to find another Lynn couple, Miss Harriet T. Smith and Wilson C. Pierce, there on the same mission. A double wedding resulted, and the two couples returned to Lynn together.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

ROUSE O'BRIEN HAS HOT BATTLE WITH NELSON IN THE CHELSEA RING

Dick Nelson is one of the toughest boys of his weight ever seen at the ring in the Hub, and proved it on his first appearance here at the Winnisimmet A. C. the Chelsea athletic emporium, and Rouse O'Brien, the scrappy boy from South Boston found his silent the hottest proposition he has stacked up against for some time.

Though no decision was registered at the end of the ten-round bout, it was a well earned award for O'Brien as he proved the sturdier in different spots in the mill.

At the start off the Graham Dane showed as strong but it appeared as if O'Brien's finish was only a question of time, but the local boy proved his game mettle, and in spite of the roughness of the pigmy Jeffries against him, clearly had him feeling the effects of the drubbing at different stages.

O'Brien Played for Body.

The secret of O'Brien's superiority was his plan of battle. He opened up with an onslaught on the body in the middle section of the bout and kept it up when he came to it. As a result he had the Dane wincing every time he landed when the second half of the fight was finished, the way. Nelson was on the point of claiming a foul when O'Brien happened to catch him flush in the pit of the stomach, but it was a stall, as Rouse never hit below the belt. Once his hand went low after landing, but it was not illegal. The constant hammering on his midsection more than the hardy Dane could stand at times, and he was forced to clinch to avoid O'Brien's steamy pelts into his midriff.

Nelson acted as if made of cast iron and O'Brien proved equally tough when it came to taking punishment. When locked into a corner with Nelson sending hot short rights and lefts to the face O'Brien took and landed them without a whimper and was never slowed down a bit but was coming faster in each succeeding round.

O'Brien's worst round was in the second when Nelson fastened on a couple of rights to the jaw and followed with the left and he opened O'Brien's eye with a nasty crack with his right. At the last of Rouse's gamely came to life and sneaked an uppercut to the head which surprised Nelson.

Nelson Made Good Start.

Nelson continued his aggressive work in the third, ripping uppercuts to O'Brien's head while he got away from O'Brien's swings by ducking.

It was O'Brien's turn in the fourth to show to the front. He started off with a right hand swing to the jaw which had the effect on Nelson suddenly. Both men clinched with both hands and Nelson had a little scare left at the belt.

O'Brien was never losing sight for a chance to look his left to the body and he counted hard in the fifth. Outside of the seventh O'Brien had the advantage in the sixth the boys heads came together with a bang, but O'Brien felt it best. Nelson looked weary as the bout progressed, but was always ready for a counter, yet could not respond to the urging of his seconds to mix it. In the exchanges Nelson was the one to fade away and did so by finally ducking the issue.

The semi-final bout of six rounds between Pat Duffy of East Boston and Joe Nelson of Chelsea was a hummer and Duffy was called for Grips his ability to land a battering. Nelson nearly had him going his right is the first round, but failed to follow up his chances, as he was feeling the strain of his twelve-round battle of the night before.

A new youngster, Eddie Curtis of Philadelphia boxed Young Dennis of Charlestown six rounds, and Curtis was willing a contender for the Bunker Hill lad. He wanted to bang away from the bell, but Dennis wanted to box clever. Jack Fitzgerald of South Boston refereed a referee artist. Young Harlow, off in four rounds, and made a great impression by his business action all the way.

MORAN AND ROOT WILL BE RIVALS IN RACE

There will be some ill feeling to settle when the six-day grind is on next week at the Park Square rink, as there is a feud existing between Jimmy Moran, the Chelsea rider, and Eddie Root, the champion. The pair have got it in for each other and whenever they happen to be on the track together there will be a few fireworks on exhibition in the racing line.

Moran has secured Jim Fogler, Root's partner of last year, and the two of them promise to make it hot for Root before they are through with him.

They have been hurling all kinds of challenges at each other and they met at the Winnisimmet boxing club last night and each was introduced separately in the ring. Root got the applause for being champion, but Moran showed him up by giving out the information that he beat him in a six-day race held in Atlanta a few years ago. Root was unprepared for this exposing of facts, but was heard to say that he would get even by taking Moran's measure when they meet on the track next week.

Root is looking in fine shape and with Patsy Logan will make up the Boston team when the six-day riders get the word next Monday afternoon.

WANT JEFF TO FIGHT JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Another effort is to be made at once to induce Jim Jeffries, the most discussed figure in sport of the world, to reconsider his determination not to box a colored man and to take on Jack Johnson, the giant boxer who so easily knocked out Jim Flynn at Colma, in a forty-five round fight on New Year's afternoon. Jimmy Coffroth has announced that he will leave to-day or to-morrow for Los Angeles, where he will see Jeffries and put the proposition up to the champion in such a manner that he will either have to emerge from retirement or pass up the fighting game forever.

Coffroth is prepared to meet any demand the big fellow makes on to the purse for the bout, and as his part Johnson stands ready to fight winner take all or to divide the money to any manner that is wanted by Jeffries. In additions to the purse money, Coffroth is willing to offer Jeffries other inducements that will net the champion a fifty-thousand fortune on the one night. Among the other tempting bits that will be dangled before the eyes of Jeff will be a lion's share of the money made through the receipts of the moving pictures of the fight.

May Net Jeff $100,000.

While Coffroth has not said what he is willing to do in the way of a purse, it is understood that he can go as far as $50,000, and this with other cuts that Jeffries would be able to gather would bring his earnings up to more than $100,000, should he succeed in beating the lusty colored man.

So well satisfied is Coffroth that he will be able to get Jeffries to re-enter the ring that he is already planning what he will do to make the holding of the battle a success. If Jeffries comes through with his signature to the articles Coffroth's fighting area at Colma will be remodelled so as to provide seats for twice as many as it holds now. The Colma arena is but twenty minutes' ride from Ocha city. Racing will be in full blast at Oakland and Los Angeles at the time the fight will be held, and the contest will draw thousands of the racetrack people, as well as the usual crowd that this city supplies to all big fights. In addition, a fight of this importance will draw hundreds from far away places that would not turn out for any contest of less importance.

MT. PLEASANT, INDIANS' GREAT PLAYER.

HERE IS A PICTURE OF CLEVER CARLISLE QUARTER, SENDING THE BALL ON LONG JOURNEY DOWN THE FIELD.

METS' MATINEE TODAY WILL DECIDE WINNERS OF CUPS

With the matinee this afternoon at Charles River Speedway ends the Fall series of the Metropolitan Driving Club, eight in number, and then will come the awarding of the silver cups to the winners in the several divisions.

Among the trotters who have contested in the matinees the likely ones have very much in doubt, three of the number standing even at sixteen points for the trophies, with another only one point back of the previously named horse.

Bobby Patchen, Jr., has the first trophy won for paces winning the most points, a total of 19, and he can only add one point, so that can overcome his lead, fifteen points.

While Al Bay may be considered a top pacers won under the conditions one contestant can only one point, so that thirteen points are no help to him in getting first cup.

President C. H. Belleden has won the time prize with three heats, Chess Heck, like Al. Bay, his winning points cannot gain him another point, and Bobby Mack's two fastest average race, yet being a starter in only the one race was not sufficient to qualify him for the trophies, the conditions being that a horse must start in three of the matinees to qualify.

Belle Gold and Elmwood have each been placed in the following events, and on today's race will decide which gets the cup for the pacers winning the second highest number of points. Ashland Bett, by winning the one remaining race of matching the trophy at the last minute, as she has one point to her credit, and a victory would place her at twelve points, while a third for both Elmwood and Belle Gold would make a tie between all three named, and the extra race between them would then be had to decide the cups.

Following are the leaders in points to to-day's matinee.

CRIMSON KICKERS WILL BE READY FOR INDIANS

Harvard football players are showing up to better advantage, and there is a feeling of confidence in Cambridge that the Crimson will win their game with the Indians Saturday.

It is planned to put a strong team of graduates against the varsity eleven in a scrimmage to-morrow.

In the preliminary practice Coach Cutts got out the noted Harvard charging machine for the purpose of getting the men to sit start at once. The machine is a sled-like arrangement which the men put their shoulders to and push down the field. The men were sent at it by relays. While one team of four men was pushing on the machine the other four rode upon it for the purpose of making it harder for them to push. Fish, Hadden, Forwelmeier, Hoar, Nourse, Gilmore, Inches and Robinson composed the relays.

The machine is so arranged as to tell which player hits the line before the others, and in that way the slow men can be hastened, and those who are too fast can be held back.

Ex-Captain Dan Hurley, Hagden, Bob Keenan and Fisher Nesmith were all on the field during the practice and lent suggestions as to the handling of the machine.

Teddy Roosevelt, Jr., was in the varsity lineup for a while yesterday, but he sprained a cord in his leg and will be out of the game for a week.

ALL INDIANS EXCEPT HAUSER ARE IN FINE CONDITION

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 6.—All the Indian kickers are in good shape except Hauser, and he will be all right by Saturday. The men are now looking hard. Special attention was paid before the scrimmage to perfecting the long forward pass used with such effect against Pennsylvania. The Indian ends feel that they know enough of offensive work now to prevent these being boxed as they were in the Princeton contest. Indian Coach Warner will pile in substitutes if Harvard resorts to Princeton's line-battering tactics. The Indian school officials have decided to have the eleven leave Carlisle on Friday morning.

WALTER CAMP AGAIN DIRECTS ELIS' PRACTISE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 6.—Walter Camp again had charge of the practise of the Yale eleven, and former Head Coaches Foster, Rockwell and Joe Swan, and George Adee and Neil Glass were also present.

Cooney was restored to left guard and indications are that he will remain there. His work is not fully satisfactory, but the coaches do not believe that there is any opposition that he is the best candidate in the field.

Foster played in Captain Bigiow's place at right tackle most of the practise, as Paige has not been able to rejoin the squad, and Tackle Brown will almost certainly face Brown University Saturday. Word has been received that ex-Captain Rafferty will reach here to-day to join the coaches. He has not been out this season.

Applications for 32,000 seats have been received for the Princeton game here November 16.

LOCAL COLTS MAY WIN THE BIG STAKES

While Trampfast secured the world's race record for two-year-olds at Lexington, Ky., in the Futurity, and among the number that he defeated were a lot of youngsters from Massachusetts, yet his best in 2:12½ will not frighten out any of the local owners in the big Futurity events of 1908.

It is very likely that when John Young comes to the Readville track next Spring the Allen Farm products he will have ready to bring to Boston the Hanover, 2:15½, holder of the record for having won the fastest three-heat race for two-year-olds in the world, has fully as good a chance of heading the summary of the Futurity stakes as has Trampfast, or has Helen Gate (p. c.) 2:15, the world's record for two-year-old fillies in a race.

Henry Titer will have a full brother of Nine Hill (2), 2:25, in preparation for the stakes, and the report is that he is remarkably speedy as was Hue Hill at his age, though he has not been raced the past season.

While not owned in Massachusetts now, the breeders from this State will keep an eye on the future of The Leading Lady (2), 2:16¾, just the same, and any filly with her known speed is bound to be a dangerous factor at all stages of the game.

With so many grandly-bred youngsters in Massachusetts, this State should rank with any in the Union in producing its quota of two and three-year-old winners and champions.

M'INTYRE MAY JOIN YANKS NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Matty McIntyre, the great outfielder of the Detroit Club, has received a flattering offer to sign as professional rival and personal enemy of Ty Cobb, and will probably be learned next Spring if the leg which he injured early last season shows that it is as strong as ever.

McIntyre, one of the greatest outfielders and best hitters in the business, dropped out of sight completely last season. He played in only thirty games. He was injured early, and by the time he was ready to don his uniform once more Cobb, Crawford and Cobb Magn's trio of Jones, Crawford and Cobb was working so well that he did not think any change.

It is almost a certainty that McIntyre will not be with Detroit next Spring, as he and Cobb are bitter personal enemies, and Jennings, admittedly, feels that he would be good for the morale of the team if one of these men were traded away. Cobb is a clique in the Detroit outfield. As it is a clique that Cobb will be retained, this points to McIntyre.

McIntyre would like to play in New York, as he has many friends here, where he has lived all his life. In the Yankee outfield he would improve the strength of the team immensely, and, although not a long hitter, would add to this, as he is a good and daring base runner. He would be invaluable in steadying Griffin and McCormick (pastimes), fullback, 185; Winter, end, 175; Harlan, halfback, 160; Phillips, centre, 193; Dillon, quarterback, 154; Bosch, tackle, 183; Seigling, end, 190; Walter, guard, 211; Hoffman, guard, 238; Brown, end, 173; Read, halfback, 165.

Substitutes—Pfeffer, fullback, 153; Tibbott, halfback, 155; Howell, end, 151; Whaley, guard, 207; Cass, centre, 171; Vaughan, end, 174; Coxe, fullback, 172; Bauman, tackle, 183; Woodward, guard, 204; Buckingham, tackle, 197; Brown, quarterback, 154; Orr, halfback, 182.

DEFI TO WALSH FOR THE TOP BANTAM TITLE

Eddie Moore of Fawtucket writes to the Sporting Editor of the Boston American as follows in behalf of Bobby Tickle, I hereby challenge Jimmy Walsh of Boston to box before the club offering the best inducement. Weight to be 115 pounds ringside. I will bet five hundred dollars ($500) and will let Tickle box either Monday or Tuesday. Now this is a business proposition, and if Walsh or his manager mean business they will take up this defi at once.

"Bobby Tickle has met and defeated such good men as Hanlon, Mike Grady, Freddy O'Brien and a score of other good boys and has never weighed much more than Tickle. Tickle knocked out Bunny Hogan's trio of Jones, Crawford and Cobb was working so well that he did not think any change.

It is almost a certainty that McIntyre will not be with Detroit next Spring, as he and Cobb are bitter personal enemies, and Jennings, admittedly, feels that he would be good for the morale of the team if one of these men were traded away. Cobb is a clique in the Detroit outfield. As it is a clique that Cobb will be retained, this points to McIntyre.

INDIANS ARE NO LONGER JUST MECHANICAL PLAYERS

"The Indians have gradually established the genius of football," says a close student of the gridiron game. "Formerly they played mechanical, brainless football; did what they had been taught and nothing more. They now play with keen understanding. They are well grounded in the fundamentals. Their tackling is fierce, low and sharp; they are always with the ball; they fumble but little and their catching of punts is in the main good. They seem to have acquired ability to size up plays which they lacked some time ago and which constitutes real football instinct and genius. Their offence is carefully planned and well executed."

This critic points out that in the Pennsylvania game Hauser, the fullback, kicked two goals from placement in scrimmages. There is a long difference between placement kicking from a fair catch and from scrimmage, and two goals of the latter description in one game are deserving of note. The Indians seem to have been paying a good deal of attention to this comparatively neglected method of acquiring points, though it has not led to any great results, having been practising it some. It is a matter by the Indians went through.

TIGERS' FOOTBALL SQUAD WEIGHS OVER A TON

PRINCETON, Nov. 6.—There is nothing that tells the truth in football so much as cold figures. Many who have been trying to calculate the statistics of the Tigers have had a hard proposition to buck, because there has been a constant change of players. Even now the personnel of the team is by no means fixed, but a few facts have been given out which are of some interest. These are based on the weights as it stands now.

Of the Tigers stood on a scale all together, they would tip the beam at a little over a ton; to be exact, 2,040 pounds. The line from tackle to tackle gives a total of 1,008 pounds, averaging 201 3-5, but this is considerably reduced when the ends tally 174 pounds, while the backfield strikes the happy medium of 202½ pounds.

McFadyen, the right guard, seems to be the heftiest man on the squad, for 230 pounds give his bulk as 238 avoirdupois. Waller is next with 214 pounds. The lightest Tiger is Harlan, who can boast of but 150 pounds.

The substitutes in the backfield will give these figures a boost.

For instance, Orr, who replaces Read, weighs 182 pounds, or 17 more than the regular. Tibbott, too, is 4 pounds heavier than Harlan, whom he has been superseding. Cass is somewhat lighter than McCormick. It will be learned with surprise that Bosch, the tackle, is identically as heavy as Phillips, the centre. To the casual observer the latter appears to be much lighter than Bosch, but such is not the case.

Here is the list from which these figures are taken, the average being got from the first eleven on it:

LANGFORD IS HARD AT WORK

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Sam Langford and Joe Thomas, the two colored fighters who are to fight before the Pacific A. C. November 12, are doing strenuous stunts at their respective training quarters.

That the bout will be a hummer is the belief of every fan who visits the block house, for with the purse split 75 and 25 per cent, with the winner getting the 75, it will behoove both not to waste a second in hauling the ring rust.

TIGERS TO PLAY HERE.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—The Princeton basketball team will make an extended trip through New England in the holidays, and among the games the team has already scheduled is one with Harvard varsity at Boston on January 11. The Tigers will also be at Providence, playing Brown January 8, and between that game and the one with Harvard, Princeton will meet Yale at New Haven. Harvard is scheduled to play at Princeton. DRAPER'S SON, RECONCILED, VOTES FOR 'PA'

HOPEDALE, Nov. 6.—R. H. Bolston Draper, who since his elopement and marriage to Quenelle Sandford, the New York actress, last March, has been estranged from his parents, made his first visit to his home since when he came from New York yesterday to vote for his father, Eben S. Draper, for Lieutenant Governor.

The young man came alone by train to Boston, where he was met by his father and driven in the latter's auto to The Ledges, the Summer home of the family.

After a short stop the Lieutenant Governor and son were whirled away to the Town Hall, where both cast their ballots. Scores of young people had gathered around him and greeted him effusively. Bostwick Draper, the other two sons are evidently completely reconciled.

The full manifestation and his wife were lessened when their twenty-five-year-old son Hugh eloped with Miss Marjorie Bay, a society girl of Franklin and Boston, and eloped with the chorus girl. Lieutenant-Governor Draper plainly showed his indignation in a letter he forwarded to made of the episode, and the son had never come under his family or friends. After a short stay he will return to New York.

WHAT THE VOTE FOR HISGEN MEANS

It Signifies That in the Next Election the Independence League Candidate for Governor Will Be ELECTED.

The vote for Thomas L. Hisgen for Governor makes the Independence League of Massachusetts the second party in the State. It has taken the place of the Democratic party as one of the two leading parties and is now in regard to the number of its membership second only to the Republican organization.

Many persons who voted for Whitney were not Democrats, and they did not vote opposite the Democratic designation. These votes subtracted from Whitneys' total will leave the Democratic party in third place.

The Democratic party labelled itself "Sold out to Whitney!" and it paid at the polls the penalty of an alliance as disgraceful to its principles and traditions as it was fatal to its official position under the law of the Commonwealth.

The balloting was a great triumph for Mr. Hisgen and for the Independence League. It was a tribute to Mr. Hisgen's ability and merit as a man, and it showed the strength of a party which gave him the second place in election returns at the end of the second campaign of its existence.

One newspaper said two days ago that the vote for Hisgen would mean nothing except to "show the strength of the Hearst newspapers in Massachusetts." The election returns of yesterday show far more than that. The remarkable vote for Mr. Hisgen means that the voters of Massachusetts will not longer permit both of their leading political parties to be owned by trusts and managed by trust agents.

To-day the politicians of the Whitney school and the Lodge school can read in the number of towns which Hisgen carried much interesting and significant information. They can read the fact that in the next campaign the Independence League will again present to the people candidates untrammelled by trust yokes. It will have enrolled under its many banners in the end a majority of the voters of Massachusetts and it will win at the polls.

It will pass from the second party in Massachusetts into being the FIRST party.

The Independence League has come to stay and to ELECT THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

MORAN'S VICTORY IS FITZGERALD'S DEFEAT

John B. Moran's election by nearly ten thousand votes more than the combined votes of his old party opponents is a marvellous tribute from the people of Boston to the present District Attorney.

It is a vote of confidence such as few public officials have ever received.

At the same time that it is a vote of confidence in Mr. Moran, it is also a vote of lack of confidence in the present administration at City Hall, which had done everything in its power to defeat Moran and which stood ready to utilize the city employes and the city "machine" to throw the Democratic strength as far as possible to the Republican candidate rather than to permit Mr. Moran's election.

Moran's overwhelming popularity made the success of such a plot impossible. The result shows that had Mr. Fitzgerald been able to throw every Democratic vote to Webster, the Mayor and his organization would still have been beaten.

Dennison was hopelessly defeated soon after the campaign opened because of his legal and political alliance with Mayor Fitzgerald and because of his unjustifiable attacks upon Mr. Moran's character.

All the chance that Webster had of election was killed by the publication in the BOSTON AMERICAN of a photograph which told plainer than words the friendly relations existing between him and Mayor Fitzgerald.

Mr. Moran achieved his remarkable triumph, after a campaign in which he was viciously traduced, by a majority over all. More votes were polled for him than for Dennison and Webster combined.

Voiceless and unable to repeat the remarkable campaign which first made him District Attorney, he had to rely chiefly for the presentation of his claims for re-election upon the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Mr. Moran had the active opposition of most of the newspapers in Boston and covert support was given to his opponents by all others except the BOSTON AMERICAN. They gave much space and prominent position to all attacks made upon him by Dennison or others and printed Moran's replies where they would be least conspicuous, or else failed entirely to print them.

They made the most they could of the little that could be said in his disparagement and displayed, in brief, openly or indirectly a desire to retire him from office.

Against this hostile press array the BOSTON AMERICAN stood alone in Mr. Moran's behalf.

As a lone-handed fighter, without any party nomination and with the active opposition of every paper in the city except the BOSTON AMERICAN, he was elected District Attorney two years ago.

When the regular nominee for Governor of the Democratic party one year ago, he was KNIFED BY THE DEMOCRATIC MACHINE IN THIS CITY and defeated.

But this year as the INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE candidate he is triumphantly re-elected and in the result politicians and the public may find facts worth considering.

The re-election of John B. Moran as District Attorney is the DEFEAT OF JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor of Boston, and head of the corrupt Democratic city machine.

A Woman's Happiness Lies in the Life of the Heart, for This Is the Real Life for Women

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

READING the "Life of Margaret Fuller Ossoli," by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, I could but think with gratification of the healthier ideas prevalent to-day concerning the education of brilliant young girls as compared with those which governed the life and destroyed the vitality of that remarkable woman.

At twenty-three Miss Fuller was an accomplished scholar, reading Greek, Latin, French, German and Italian; writing remarkable essays, letters and poems; teaching her small brothers and sisters, doing much of the family sewing, and giving extra hours to the study of architecture.

She began the study of Latin at the age of six. As Mr. Higginson says, "Her education was carried on by an intellectually forcing process; it was the custom of the time."

Her lessons were recited to her father after he came in from his office and frequently broke in upon the hours she should have given to the building sleep of childhood.

It was no wonder that Margaret Fuller was short-sighted and stoop-shouldered.

It is no wonder that she suffered all her life with poor circulation and impaired vitality.

At twenty-three she wrote in her diary:

Gave Up Her Hopes

"ALL youthful hopes of every kind I have pushed from my thoughts. I will not lose an hour in castle building and repining; too much of that already. Please God that I may keep my mind composed and fill it with what shall after be conducive to the best good of others."

Margaret Fuller, indeed, lived a life dedicated to others. For, once that thought takes form in the mind of man, or woman, the way is laid for their feet to tread.

He who will, must.

After giving up all her personal ambitions for travel and study abroad, at the death of her father Margaret Fuller became a teacher, in order to support her mother and educate her brothers and sisters.

Later we find her in New York, the literary associate of Horace Greeley. She wrote essays, dramatic and literary reviews, and touched on all reformatory themes.

Here are some of the titles of her lectures in the Tribune: "The Poor Man," "The Woman in Poverty," "The Rich Man," "Prison Discipline," "The Condition of the Blind," "Appeal for an Asylum for Discharged Women Convicts," "Politeness to the Poor," "Capital Punishment."

She wrote to a friend at this time, "I go on very moderately in my work, for my strength is not great, and I suffer from headaches."

Finally, in 1846, when she was thirty-six years old, Margaret Fuller carried out the dream of her life and sailed to Europe. In Paris she saw Beranger and George Sand; saw Rachel act, and heard Chopin play. Then she went to Italy and in Rome saw Mazzini return from a seventeen-year exile; saw the republic established and saw it fall. She became associate of all the great people of her day, in America and Europe.

In December of that year she was secretly married to the Marquis Ossoli, seven years her junior, and three years later she, husband and child were drowned off Fire Island, in sight of the lifeboats, as they were returning to America on the Elizabeth.

But perhaps she had lived her life to the full.

Recompense Comes

HER belated youth had realized its dream of love and maternity—those dreams which, however suppressed, are a vital part of every true woman's nature.

Perhaps life would have given her no greater gifts, and death made them eternally her own.

Margaret Fuller was given a wonderful education, great talents and brilliant honors. She was said to be the only American woman of her time who associated with the great men of the age as an intellectual equal.

Emerson, Hawthorne, Greeley were all ready to pay her honor. Yet it is a notable fact that she married a young Italian of marked personal beauty, good family and much refinement, but without intellectual attainments, money or influence. She suffered with poverty and loneliness and exile for his sake; but were her spirit to speak to the world to-day it is quite probable that she would say the best happiness of her whole life was contained in those last three years.

For in those three years she lived the life of the heart; and that is the real life for woman.

Old Loves and New

By Winifred Black

A NICE, respectable man of good income and decent position in his little world of business has just sued his wife for divorce because the wife snatched a humble little flower from his hand, tore it up and dared him ever to bring another flower from the same place into the house with him.

"I cannot live with a woman of such temper," said the nice, respectable man in his complaint. "I don't know what she may do if she goes on and I want a divorce right now, before it is too late."

The case is still under advisement.

It turned out in the testimony that the flower came from the grave of the nice, respectable man's first wife, and that he had brought it home from the cemetery and shown it to wife number two, with a gush of sentimental tears.

Well—er—now, after all I can't be quite so horrified as I should be at the reprehensible performance of wife number two.

Of course, she was foolish—very, very foolish.

If she had been a woman of shrewd sense she would have thrown her arms around the neck of her weeping husband, kissed the little flower, too, and been so sweet and gentle and comforting that he would have forgotten all about wife number one and begun to wonder how he had ever lived one minute without wife number two.

And wife number two could have crept away upstairs somewhere and made a face at the wall, or thrown a wicked kiss to her own reflection in the glass, and nobody but the rug and the wall paper would have been a whit the wiser.

But you see she wasn't shrewd, or sensible; she was just human and miserable and foolish and hot-headed, and now she will have to pay for all these not exactly amiable qualities.

The husband?

Oh, of course, he's a ridiculous person, too.

No man of sense or real sentiment will show the woman who loves him now a flower from the grave of a woman he used to love and expect her to look pleasant about it.

Know he was a widower when she married him?

To be sure she did—and so did he know she was a woman when he married her.

I have no sympathy with a woman who goes into the home of the widower she marries and begins tearing down wall paper and turning pictures to the wall because there's something about them that makes her think of the feared and envied and mysterious first wife.

I have also very little patience with the man who gives his second wife a chance to do any of these things.

He ought to get them all done himself before she begins to have time to get wrought up about them.

'Tis well to be off with the old love
Before you are on with the new.

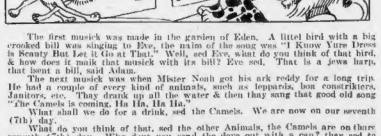
The old proverb means a whole lot more than a broken engagement and a few foolish first youth love letters, too, I'm thinking.

Bobbie's Essays

By William F. Kirk

WELL, Bobbie, my teecher sed, so you want to rite more essays. You are a funny yung feller, my teecher sed, always looking for sumthing to rite. Why dont you rite a essay about musick? my teecher sed.

Musick is pretty sounds which is made in many different ways, on fiddels, organs, pianos, & peepul singing. Fiddels maiks the nicest musick & peepul maiks the worst when there is four (4) men singing "How Dear to my Hart is the Scens of My Childhood."



The first musick was made in the garden of Eden. A littel bird with a big crooked bill was singing to Eve, the naim of the song was "I Know Yure Dress is Scanty But Let it Go at That." Well, sed Eve, what do you think of that bird, & how does it maik that musick with its bill? Eve sed. Why, sed Adam, that isent a bill, said Adam.

The next musick was when Mister Noah got his ark reddy for a long trip. He had a couple of every kind of aniinals, such as leppards, lion constrikters, janitors, etc. They drunk up all the water & then they sang that good old song "The Camels is coming, Ha Ha, Ha Ha."

What shall we do for a drink, sed the Camels. We are now on our seventh (7th) day.

What do you think of that, sed the other Animals, the Camels are on there seventh (7th) day. Why dont you send the dove out with a sun? they sed to the Camels.

The Emperor Nero was a grate lover of musick, he had a fine fiddel & often in the calm twilite, when no sound could be heard in all Rome except the low roar of a Numididian Lion eating a cupple of Methodists, Mister Nero wud set in his Morris chair playing on his fiddel such nise tunes as Torch days, scorch days.

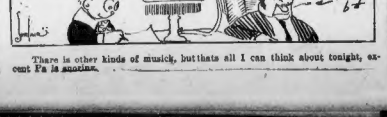
Deer old Cristian scorch days.
Peons & deekons & elders too.
Trying to say to the Lions, Skidoo.
Also sum queens in calico
Was helping to boom my Ronan show, etc.



There is other kinds of musick, but thats all I can think about tonight, except Pa is snoring.
